

Steel Order Stalled

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A U.S. District Court judge today issued a Taft-Hartley injunction to halt the 99-day steel strike for 80 days. However, a stay of the injunction was granted by the U.S. Third Court of Appeals—meaning the strike continues.

The injunction was issued by Judge Herbert P. Sore of the U.S. District Court in Pittsburgh. The United Steelworkers' Union immediately appealed.

Within an hour Judge Austin Stanley of the U.S. Third Circuit Court stayed execution of the injunction until the three-judge circuit court can hear a United Steelworkers' appeal.

Stanley said that the legal papers for the appeal must be filed by Thursday or the stay will be voided. However, if the appeal is filed the stay will be in effect until the court rules further.

Stanley declared the circuit court would sit Thursday in Philadelphia to accept the union's appeal. The union counsel, Arthur Goldberg, earlier had indicated the USW was prepared to act immediately.

Stanley said he felt sure that the circuit court judges would arrange to hold a hearing on the appeal quickly.

The government sought the injunction on orders from President Eisenhower. The president said the strike was endangering the economic health and safety of the U.S.

Harbor Funds Misspent In Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—City solicitor W. G. Angus said today that the three members of the Toronto harbor commission spent public funds illegally when they took their wives on $3,500 worth of convention and post-convention trips.

Mr. Angus, who was asked by city council for a report on the commission expenses, said money spent on club memberships, Canadian National Exhibition tickets, and a baseball dinner was a good investment in public relations.

But he said money spent on wives at conventions is "not sufficiently related to the advancement or objects" of the commission to warrant the expense.

It will be up to city council to decide what action should be taken.

'China Lacks Peace Wish'

CALCUTTA (UPI)—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru charged today that Communist China did not share Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's current desire for peace and implied the reason lay in a desire for more territory.

"I have no doubt that Khrushchev wants peace," he told a news conference. "The same eagerness for peace is not present in China."

China, he said, was "still suffering from the first flood of revolution."

U.S. ASYLUM FOR MILD BULL

(See Page 21)

SOLIHULL, England (UPI)—An American today offered to come to the rescue of Brook Mandore, the bull whose fate is his misfortune.

Farmer William Titcomb, owner of the bull, said he had received a wire from Norman Bennett, president of the U.S. Mercantile Mart of Washington, D.C., offering to buy Brook Mandore and have him shipped to sanctuary in the U.S.

Jimmy Fraser

HE'S HERE FOR BALMY WINTER

Hoo-Ray for 'A-Hoo-La'

By HUMPHRY DAVY

If you have any doubts about a mild winter, dismiss them from your mind, keep your warm undergarments in mothballs, and leer like a Cheshire cat at your fuel dealer.

It's going to be fine; no cold spell. There will be plenty of rain, but March will be a dry month. Some snow flurries will fall but they won't amount to much.

You can rely on this if you are a follower of Jimmy Fraser, famous Songhee Indian sage, who predicts the weather by direct contact with the forces of nature.

The grey-haired 82-year-old Indian, who lives on the Craigflower Reserve, has been predicting the weather for years with a remarkable degree of success.

But he's not too popular with scientists. He embarrasses them by his unorthodox methods of predicting the weather.

Jimmy Chats With Birds, Animals

As Jimmy has often explained in the past, he predicts the weather by reading the signs of nature or chatting with birds, animals or fishes. There is nothing unusual and odd about this. Consider the hundreds of white people who talk to their pets—horses, dogs, cats and goldfish.

For his present weather forecast, Jimmy chatted with a sea lion, the one which was seen basking in the sun at Hollywood Crescent last Saturday.

"A-hoo-la," meaning slippery one, is down here on a vacation.

"A-hoo-la" says warm ocean currents stay close to the Island, meaning mild winter," said Jimmy. "A-hoo-la much pleased." He says, "its going to be a good salmon season. Fish don't like warm water and so will stay here."

And that wasn't all. The sage also said a sea otter called "Small One" also paid him a visit earlier this week to discuss a serious shortage of clams on Victoria beaches. "Small One says mild winter," said Jimmy. "Small One knows. He's a good friend of the seal family who knows all about these things."

Of course, Jimmy said, something could happen to upset things. The north and south wind, he explained, sometimes wage giant battles for control of the skies. The outcome is often disastrous for mortals.

It must be explained for those who don't know Jimmy that the old Indian is a sort of nature worshipper. All things are real and alive for him. And all things are part of the one Great Spirit.

Jimmy on rising every morning faces the rising sun and prays to the Great One.

5,000 Pull Out Of Wage Dispute

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government's 5,000 professional employees today withdrew their support of a wage-increase campaign being conducted by the joint action committee of the Public Service Organization of Canada.

The Professional Institute of the Public Service of Canada said some affiliates of the two other member organizations on the committee "have been tending towards lines of action with which the professional institute cannot associate itself."

The institute covers personnel normally identified with the professional classes—incl. doctors, lawyers, scientists, economists and accountants.

Affiliates of the 83,000-member Civil Service Federation and the 30,000-member Civil Service Association of Canada have proposed strike action and rallies and urged civil servants to refrain from buying Canada Savings Bonds to protest the government's refusal to grant a general wage increase.

The institute said its action does not imply a lack of confidence in the case of the other two bodies for equitable salaries.

The government had repudiated the established procedure of salary determination on the basis of a recommendation by the civil service commission.

Meanwhile, Labor Minister Starr today promised the Civil Service Association of Canada to take steps aimed at meeting complaints about pay and working conditions for 27,000 federal "prevailing rate" employees.

The minister met national officers of the association to hear a brief on behalf of the prevailing rate workers, who are employed at going rates in the places where they work and are not permanent civil service members.

The 30,000-member association called for "extensive improvement" in pay and working conditions.

B.C. Hospital Progress Endangered

VANCOUVER (CP)—The provincial government's hold-the-line policy on hospital costs may be restricting progress and improvement in hospital care, the B.C. Hospitals Association was told Tuesday.

Dr. E. N. Boettcher of Victoria, chairman of the association's administrator division said hospital costs are bound to increase by about 10 per cent a year despite the best efforts of administrators and hospital boards.

He was speaking to the association's 42nd convention following a plea by Health Minister Martin to "hold back the tide of swollen costs which threatens to engulf the whole program" of hospital insurance.

Kenya Gov't Under Fire

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters)—An African nationalist today accused Kenya government of "deliberately trying to precipitate a situation that could very easily have resulted in a riot, destruction of property or even death."

Tom Mboya was criticizing riot squads for their action Tuesday in dealing with crowds outside a court where Mboya and five other African leaders were appearing.

France Asks Delay In Summit Talks

TAKEOVER IN U.S.

Civilians Run Army in Space

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower has decided to place the Army's team of missile and space experts at the disposal of the civilian National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), it was reported today.

Defence department sources announced the decision after the president talked with top military and civilian advisers about the space program, which again has become the subject of open controversy.

The team is headed by Dr. Werner von Braun, German-born scientist who helped put the first U.S. earth satellite into orbit. He and other members of the army group have protested a new policy giving the air force control of this country's space projects.

NASA made a bid just over a year ago to take over the army ballistic missile agency, along with its 2,100 scientists and technicians.

Eisenhower huddled with his space advisers for 70 minutes today before leaving for Augusta. The White House said he planned to issue a statement on the talks at Augusta later in the day.

The Army missile group has been getting more and more involved with space projects which both the defence department and NASA considered to be more attuned to NASA's goals than to those of the ground army.

The army resisted the takeover last year and its agency instead became a contractor for the civilian space agency.

MAJ. H. MATOS ... held as traitor

Castro Arrests Army Foe

HAVANA (AP)—Havana radio station VOZ said today Prime Minister Fidel Castro's forces have arrested Maj. Hubert Matos, his military commander in Camaguey Province.

Matos had taken refuge at his headquarters in Camaguey, the provincial capital, after two of Castro's other commanders accused him of treason against the Cuban revolution.

Castro himself flew from Havana to Camaguey for an assault on the headquarters. He paced up and down the main street there while radio stations appealed to workers and farmers to join him in the assault.

The broadcast reports said the Cuban army chief, Maj. Camillo Cienfuegos, took Matos into custody and accused him of planning a coup d'etat.

Matos, who had been one of Castro's most respected field commanders, had resigned as provincial military commander in protest, apparently, against the appointment of Castro's 29-year-old brother, Raul, as the new minister of the Cuban armed forces. The appointment abolished the defence ministry and gave the young man complete control over all the armed forces.

A number of Matos' staff members joined him in the protest. The group took refuge in the military headquarters of the Camaguey province.

Castro flew here with his army chief, Camillo Cienfuegos, from Havana. Soon afterward radio stations began broadcasting appeals for popular support in the assault on the headquarters.

Matos and several of his supporters were inside the military headquarters but Camaguey friends of the provincial commander said he was unarmed and had not carried a weapon since sending his resignation to Castro two days ago.

They predicted that any assault against the military headquarters would not be opposed by those inside.

"Leave your fields, mount your horses, and ride into Camaguey to support the revolution of Fidel Castro," was the repeated appeal to farmers and machete-carrying peasants.

De Gaulle Wants Mr. K In Paris

(From Times News Services)

WASHINGTON—French President Charles de Gaulle balked today on going along with the Western Allies on the timing of a summit meeting.

While President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan are urging the summit meeting be held in December, the French government issued a cabinet announcement today declaring the "best chance" for the East-West conclave would be next spring.

The communique said France would welcome a top-level conference but felt it must be carefully prepared first by the Western heads of government.

This ran counter to the reported wishes of Eisenhower and Macmillan. They have been urging a prompt meeting with de Gaulle to prepare for talks with Russia in December or January.

INVITATION PLANNED

It was learned de Gaulle plans to invite Soviet Premier Khrushchev to Paris for talks some time before Christmas.

Soviet Ambassador Sergei Vinogradov called on Premier Michel Debre and discussed summit conference matters.

The communique said: "The French government readily welcomes in principle the project of a so-called summit conference which has been the object of talks between leaders and diplomatic exchanges of view."

EASE TENSION

"On the other hand, the French government holds that it is first necessary that the effective easing of tension which one would like to hope for should develop."

In a statement accompanying the communique, a government spokesman said:

"The French government believes that a conference of chiefs of state must be carefully prepared by the western powers, and, notably, preceded by meetings held between them in an unhurried fashion."

Ike and Herter Discuss Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower met with State Secretary Christian Herter today, apparently to consider France's go-slow approach to the summit.

In a 40-minute conference at the White House the two were believed to have talked over ways to settle the backstage allied dispute on the timing of a meeting with Premier Khrushchev.

All the White House said of the meeting was that President Eisenhower favors a Western summit conference and is willing to attend one at any time.

Before Spring Britain's Target

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain today plumped for an East-West summit conference before next spring.

A foreign office spokesman said Britain always has felt the top-level talks should take place "rather earlier" than next spring.

WHAT A PICCADILLY CIRCUS KICKED UP BY NARKY NAG

By STEWART MACLEOD

LONDON (CP)—For one hour Tuesday traffic around Piccadilly Circus—hedge at the best of times—was reduced to chaos.

In the middle of it, grimly bracing his feet, was an old grey horse.

Behind him, pushing with all their might, were six hefty policemen.

Behind them, honking like mad, were dozens of frustrated motorists.

The horse—Billy by name—wasn't impressed. He had hauled a loaded cart for three miles and he wasn't moving it another inch.

"Cor blimey," rasped Billy's Cockney owner, Arthur Lofts. He then directed a few well-chosen phrases at his untrusty steed. "All he got back was a look of disdain."

"Send for a vet," shouted the head doorman of the Piccadilly Hotel. The horse was directly in front of the hotel's main entrance, a spot reserved for limousines of guests.

The vet came on the double and gave Billy a complete medical.

"He's just plain lazy," he said.

The situation called for psychology.

Lofts unhitched the animal, led him into a quiet alley, patted him warmly and gave him a gigantic supper of apples, his favorite food.

He was hitched again. He still refused to move.

"It's enough to drive you crackers," moaned Lofts. "Billy is a good horse—it's just that he won't move."

A van driver offered to take over Lofts' cargo.

THIS WORLD OF OURS

People and Things

(From Times News Services)

LONDON—Sir Harold Nicolson, critic and biographer of King George V, said Tuesday the heir-apparent to the British Throne should mix as much as possible with "ordinary" people.

In a lecture on the monarchy at Morley College, he said King Edward VII had been trained in a most foolish way and George V brought up in a most foolish way. Edward VII and George VI were hardly educated at all and I can't think what their tutors were up to.

He pleaded "don't keep him (Prince Charles) aloof from ordinary life."

DAYTON BEACH, Fla. — The Dayton Beach Oldsters, a five-man bowling team whose average age is 75 years, have been searching for a business firm to sponsor them in the Thursday night service league here.

They found one Tuesday—a local funeral home.

LONDON—Sculptor Emiel Hartman carried out ground tests today on his "ornithopter," which he hopes will be the first airplane to fly by manpower alone.

The plane has feathered, birdlike wings built to flap and obtain both lift and forward speed. The wings have a spread of 36 feet.

The 39-year-old Hartman hopes to keep the plane in the air by rowing like an oarsman on foot pedals and hand grips.

This weekend he hopes to be towed by a car along the runway until the plane reaches a height of 50 feet. Then he will start flapping the wings.

PARIS—A ragged tramp has been recognized by a widow as the husband she lost 15 years ago in Buchenwald concentration camp.

The tramp, thin, hungry and wearing a woman's overcoat, turned up at the cafe owned by Mme. Lontine Bourgade and asked for a glass of water. Mme. Bourgade took one look at him and fainted.

When she revived, she proclaimed him to be her husband.

He had given up hope of finding again despite the fact he was officially listed as dead.

The tramp did not remember her. In fact, he said, he

... "ridiculous upbringing"

PRINCE CHARLES
... "let him mix"

could not even remember his past life.

Three days later he disappeared and was anything of his peared and was picked up by police in the streets trying to stop cars. After his arrest, he was taken to a mental institution.

He had him registered in her husband's name.

Now she visits him daily in the hope that he will remember again their life together.

HIGHER WAGES SOUGHT BY RAILWAY UNIONS

JAYCEES WOULD INSTIL YOUTHS

Free Enterprise Education Urged

Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce is attempting to bring to the city an educational program dedicated to increased understanding of the free enterprise system.

The program is sponsored by Junior Achievement of British Columbia, which has a unit of 22 junior companies in Vancouver and is getting organized in other parts of the province.

Its object is to show boys and girls how a company is set up; how it selects, manufactures and markets a product; how books are kept and reports made; how to relate cost of materials, wages and other overhead to income from sales; and allow for a dividend to shareholders.

FAITH IN PROGRAM

Members are selected from city high schools and the majority are between 15 and 18.

"We believe this program would be of tremendous value to high school students in Victoria," says Roy Farmer, director of youth development for Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce.

"Last year some 72,000 high school students throughout Canada and the United States participated in this program."

"At the present time in Canada it operates in Vancouver, New Westminster and Windsor, Ont. We feel Victoria should be the fourth Canadian city to adopt it."

The program will be discussed at a luncheon meeting of the Jaycees to be held in the Pacific Club Friday at 12:15 p.m.

Representatives of Victoria school board, the Bank of Montreal, B.C. Forest Products, Yarrows Ltd. and Victoria Machinery Depot.

TRAFALGAR DAY MARKED

Nelson's Signal Flying

Admiral Nelson's historic Trafalgar Day signal flies again in Victoria today, the 154th anniversary of one of the greatest naval battles of all time.

The 31-flag hoist went up at 9:45 a.m. on the Legislative Buildings flagpole, hoisted by signalmen from HMCS Naden. The signal, reading "England expects that every man will do his duty, will fly until sunset."

A valuable Nelson memento can be seen at the Maritime Museum, Esquimalt, B.C. It is a telescope known to have been used by the admiral, donated to the museum by N. M. Summers of Norwood, Man. Mr. Summers told the museum his father was a steward at the Wiltshire estate of Nelson's descendants and that the telescope was given by a nephew of the admiral.

In his Trafalgar Day message to the fleet today, Rear Admiral H. S. Rayner, flag officer, Pacific Coast, looked back from the missile age to 1805. "On this day in 1805 vice-admiral Lord Nelson won a naval victory which changed the course of history," the message said. "Lord Nelson's exceptional career and notable victories may be attributed to his beliefs: belief in God, belief in his officers and men, and belief in himself.

"These beliefs still ring true for us today and will serve to fortify us as we advance into the space and missile age."

Mail Handling Major Problem City Officer Managers Told

By HAL MALONE

The office manager of one of the world's largest timber companies looked a group of Victoria office managers in the eye Tuesday night and told them to be good OM's they must:

1. "Have the skill to motivate personnel."
2. "Believe in people," and;
3. "Have an attitude that appeals to workers."

Furthermore, said L. G. Rhodes, supervisor of office services for the giant Weyerhaeuser Timber Co. of Tacoma, "you must exert the sort of effort you would like your employees to exert."

His advice was contained in an address ("The Office Opportunity for Service") he gave to the Victoria chapter, National Officers Management Association.

Proper handling of personnel was one of eight points he covered. Some he admitted were of little significance "but important in their own way."

One of the biggest office problems: handling of mail. "No company can function without mail being available when employees come to work."

In his own company, mail clerks report in at 6:30 a.m., an hour and a half before regular employees.

Stamps, he said, were "passed—even in a small office their use is too expensive. A postage meter is essential."

His views on other "aids" to better office management:

Library—"Every housewife has one—cook books and recipes. So should every office."

Records Management—"Surprisingly few companies have a formal program. The solution isn't more filing cabinets but a program of inventory of records and a retention and destruction schedule."

Duplicating Processes—"Study the process that best suits your business. Don't get into the printing business unless your volume warrants it."

Mechanical Equipment—"There is no one best machine for any job. What is important is dependability and availability of service. Don't consider reciprocity; it will only lead to headaches."

Office Arrangement—"An office is a home away from home. Is yours an enjoyable place to work? It doesn't have to be elaborate or expensively furnished. It should be functional and pleasant. To overcome crowded working areas there is a trend to eliminating private offices and to provide spare rooms for conferences and quiet work."

Communications—"Have your switchboard operator ask who is calling on incoming calls. Don't be difficult to talk to. Be friendly. It pays."

Chessman Wins Stay

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today granted an eighth stay of execution to Caryl Chessman, one-time "red light bandit" of Los Angeles, so he can bring his 10th appeal to the high tribunal.

Chessman received the news with icy composure. He was to have been executed Friday. "Thank you," was all that he said to correctional Sgt. T. C. Gilbert, when the officer relayed the word to Chessman in San Quentin's death row.

He showed no emotion and did not appear surprised that his 11 years and five months under death sentence was to be prolonged.

Chessman's lawyer, George T. Davis of San Francisco, had applied to Associate Justice William O. Douglas for the stay.

Douglas referred the petition to the entire court, although Chief Justice Earl Warren, a former governor of California did not participate in the decision.

The reprieve will allow Chessman to file appeal papers and await the high court's disposition of them.

Davis had filed a clemency petition with California Gov. Edmund G. Brown. But, after hearing and considering the plea over the weekend, Brown turned it down Monday.

DENIED RIGHTS

When Davis came to the supreme court last Friday with his application to Douglas for a stay of execution, he was armed with an appeal totaling 243 pages, plus a 30-page appendix.

Chessman has maintained that he was denied his constitutional rights because the trial record in his case was not properly prepared. The court reporter died shortly after the trial ended and his notes were transcribed by someone else.

Chessman argued that the notes were illegible and incapable of accurate transcription.

Street 'Discovered' Where No Tax Paid

TORONTO (CP) — A "hidden" street in east-end Toronto where eight families have lived for years without paying taxes was reported by Controller Jean Newman today.

She said the signposted street with eight big trailer homes, each numbered and well landscaped, is called Charry Nook Place—a street which the city didn't know existed.

A resident's complaint led to Mrs. Newman's discovery of the street whose laneway is street with eight big trailer well hidden.

MARTIN'S WAGE WARNING

Rising Costs Threaten BCHIS

VANCOUVER (CP) Health Minister Eric Martin Tuesday warned of a rising tide of cost that "could well threaten the existence of the British Columbia Hospital Insurance Service unless checked."

In a speech to an overflow audience of more than 500 hospital administrators attending the annual convention of the B.C. Hospitals Association he also said increased wages are a major factor in rising costs.

"It is more than important that you consider costs. It is vital and urgent. There must be co-ordinated and successful endeavor to hold back costs. We want to see expansion and other developments, but I can assure you that unless we see a leveling off of the total cost structure, we are going to be in serious trouble."

"POLITICAL" GAMBIT

The minister referred to costs again and again in his speech. He said suggestions that hospital employees were underpaid were, "I suspect, more political in intent than in the interests of the hospitals."

Hospital employees "have done well for themselves." Since 1948 the number of employees had increased 93 per cent while the wage bill has risen 275 per cent.

He was not criticizing the level of hospital pay. Before hospital insurance the level was "dreadfully low" and considerable upward adjustments were in order.

THERE WAS A LEAK ALRIGHT WHEN 'PLUMBER' TOOK GEMS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Matteo Sampieri, 34, was started Tuesday when he entered his new apartment and found a strange man walking out of his bedroom.

The stranger waved cheerily to Sampieri and sauntered into the bathroom, sat on the edge of the bathtub and cupped his ear.

"I'm the plumber," he said to Sampieri. "There's a leak somewhere and we're trying to locate it."

The stranger then belled down the tub drain. "Is it still leaking, Joe?"

"Joe" didn't answer. "I guess he can't hear me. I'll have to run down myself," the stranger said. "You turn on the shower and I'll go down and see if I can spot the leak."

Sampieri, recalling that the superintendent of the new building was named Joe Contino, immediately obliged and turned the shower on full blast.

$450 GONE

After waiting for what he considered more than a reasonable length of time, Sampieri turned off the shower and went looking for Joe.

He found him all right, but Joe didn't know anything about any leak.

Sampieri hastily returned to his apartment and discovered $450 in jewelry missing.

Police, noting that there were no signs of forced entry, believe the plumber may be the phantom burglar who has committed 325 robberies in the last 10 years.

Stalemate in Steel

THE PROLONGED STEEL strike in the United States demonstrates two significant facts. There is the tragic fact of three months' loss of production, with its tremendous costs to the industry and to the workers, and its serious effects on secondary industries. And there is the inescapable fact that the whole process of negotiation between management and labor has, in this important instance, broken down.

It is against this background of more than five months of fruitless argument, including nearly 100 days of strike, that President Eisenhower has moved to implement the Taft-Hartley law. This will impose an injunction against the strike for 80 days, giving management and labor an opportunity to continue negotiations while production goes forward. If there is no agreement within that time, the strike may be resumed.

The situation has importance far beyond the bounds of the steel industry or the secondary industries dependent on it for raw material. Steel production is so large a part of the national economy (the industry supplies 40 per cent of the nation's manufacturers) that its cessation is felt even in non-steel industries. The wage contracts which are decided in the steel industry exert a dominant effect on contracts to be negotiated later in other industries. The price of steel, determined in part by those contracts, is felt in all areas.

In this sense the steel industry sets the pace for all industry, and the settlement that is finally made will be felt throughout the U.S. economy.

Because of this, steel management is fighting hard to hold wage increases to a minimum. With equal determination the unions, involved are trying to set a wage standard that will pace the whole country.

Under these conditions the process of negotiation has bogged down. There is no indication at the moment that the 80-day resumption of work will be more than an interlude in a more prolonged strike.

Speed Is Not 'Exonerated'

WHEN 12 OF BRITISH Columbia's 136 fatal highway accidents in the first eight months of this year occurred in 60-mile zones and speed is identified as the cause of 28 deaths, it is difficult to see how fast travel is exonerated from blame for the mounting provincial road toll.

Statistics show that the drinking driver was the chief cause of death on the highway up to August 1 this year. A driver whose competence at the wheel is reduced, or destroyed, by liquor is obviously a constant danger. His capabilities are cut down by slowed reflexes, perhaps faulty vision and by poor judgment.

But if alcohol is the largest single ingredient in the shameful tragedy which is British Columbia's highway record, speed, according to the analysis made by highway department and RCMP officials, is the second major element.

It is true that certain drivers under certain conditions and driving certain types of cars can travel 60 miles an hour and faster with apparent safety. Thousands do every day. But it is just as true that 60 miles an hour is too high a rate for others.

The danger in stretches of highway where 60 is fixed as the maximum, and so announced on signs, is not that people capable of driving that fast will get into trouble. The risk is compounded when those not so proficient are encouraged by the higher legal limit to drive beyond their abilities.

The survey has convinced the attorney-general that "the hard policy of strict traffic enforcement must continue." The reasoning public will agree with that point of view.

It will endorse, also, the attorney-general's statement that the ultimate responsibility for safe driving rests with the driver.

But it would be very unwise to suggest that speed is an inconsiderable factor in traffic deaths and injury. It always will be a lethal element since it gives added potency to the projectile that is a car in motion.

The Law Must Merit Respect

NO ONE WILL QUARREL WITH the principle that a man charged with a crime should have every opportunity to present his defence, and every reasonable consideration in pleading for mercy. But few would carry leniency to the point reached in California in the case of Caryl Chessman.

After a prolonged trial, this man was condemned to death in 1948 for sex crimes. A succession of legal moves since then has delayed execution of the sentence. During the intervening years the condemned man wrote a book in prison which was smuggled out and published. The last legal move took place this week, when Governor Edmund Brown denied an appeal for clemency.

It comes as a shock to Canadians, used to other procedures, to read that Chessman held a press conference in the prison, and that he spent the time, not in offering further defence, but in snarling personal charges against the Governor and insinuating that his official decision was motivated by political considerations.

Even his fellow prisoners have hanged this man in effigy. The whole conduct of the case has, in the opinion of many Americans, brought contempt and distrust on the law. One such critic, discussing clemency, has asked if there is clemency for one young victim still confined to a mental institution as a result of her tragic experience.

Justice, to be most effective, should be accurate — and free from unnecessary delay.

Cut the Mustard, or Else . . .

THE PUBLIC MAY BE LITTLE informed on the Joe Berg Foundation plan to encourage bright students to do more and better work. It has been told, however, that a special group of 26, selected from the top 2 per cent of Vancouver's Grades 9 and 10, will be given advanced study in mathematics and science.

This is a concerted effort to develop the full potentials of top-flight youngsters in the secondary school class. It will be applauded by that large section of educationists who feel too little attention has been paid to the bright student while perhaps too solicitous an interest has been taken in the dull.

Those are differences of opinion on that point, but one feature of the Vancouver experiment will be noted with hard-headed satisfaction. The children who have been chosen for the special training will not remain in the classes if they fail to measure up to their abilities.

They are on the team, but they have to keep up the practice. If they don't cut the mustard, they're out. In addition to its other advantages, the Vancouver experiment will emphasize some element of competition for the students — and a readiness for competition is one of the elements most apparent in the bright students of today.

"Hooray for our side...!"

What Can Surprise Us When We Know It All?

By B. A. TOBIN

A NEWS item from London reports that some Cambridge University researchers have been conducting an experiment with a ghost. It wasn't a real ghost, just a man in a sheet. But he made himself appear and disappear in a field near a main highway, while ghost experts hid in the bushes to see what reaction the public would show. The public didn't show any reaction. At least eighty people were exposed to the sight of the white figure flitting eerily only fifty yards away. They didn't raise a single yelp; and apparently not a single eyebrow. Nobody reported seeing anything. Nobody ran away. The ghost was a miserable failure.

Tobin

The Cambridge experts seem to have been surprised by this. But anyone could have told them what to expect. A generation or two ago there might have been some comment on the appearance of a ghost in a field. But that was in the days when unusual things were unusual. Nowadays it takes a lot more than a little show of floating white, a cloud or two of ectoplasm or a dimly lit hovering figure to rate any attention.

This is the age of the jet plane, the space missile, the round-the-moon rocket, the mushroom cloud and the inter-stellar telescope. We're used to even these now. So who is going to raise a fuss about a white apparition in a field? In one short day an average citizen may see a plane breaking the sound barrier, hear the radio beep of a missile a thousand miles off in space, see instantaneously on a lighted screen something that is happening on the other side of the continent; travel from one hemisphere to the other almost between meals; taste, touch and feel a hundred marvels of science that were unheard of only a few years ago.

He may not actually see, but he can read about new discoveries in the incredibly small world of the atom; about new galaxies found in the unthinkable depths of space; about new drugs to make him healthy; about new materials devised to withstand unbelievable heat or cold; about ventures into the tiny universe of the one-celled creatures where the mystery of life lies almost ready to be grasped by the relentlessly enquiring mind of man; about marvels of instrumentation by which measurements may be made with miraculous accuracy; about electronic machines that almost duplicate thought itself; about these and a thousand other wonders.

He reads about them, and he quietly takes them in his stride.

He hears that a Russian surgeon is preparing to graft a new leg on a girl who lost one in a train accident. He believes it or he disbelieves it, as he chooses, but he certainly isn't astonished. He isn't astonished because he has learned to believe that if such a feat cannot be done today, it will certainly be done tomorrow or the day after.

It is hard, in fact, to think of any scientific marvel, no matter how far-fetched, which the modern man would write off entirely as impossible. In a way which the Medieval man, or even our grandfathers, could not have grasped, we set no bounds at all to the potentialities of the human brain and human ingenuity. A space car to be hurled into infinity at the speed of light, driven by light rays themselves? Not for a while, of course, but it will come. Encounters with other beings from other galaxies? That will take some time, but it's all quite according to known principles.

Eventual development of man's intelligence to supercede the physical laws of the universe and master by direct thought such forces as gravitation, magnetism, transmission? For the distant future, naturally, but nothing to get excited about.

Turn back time itself and master the cosmos? Been reading about it for years.

Abolish the whole reality of a physical universe and resolve it into merely a mathematical concept throbbing in the mind of God? Why sure, there are whole shelves of books on it.

So what is going to arouse our wonder in this twentieth century? Certainly not a Cambridge investigator in a white sheet. Certainly not any further marvels science can dream up — not for more than an introductory moment anyway.

No, for wonderment we must look elsewhere — and not in new places either. Space and the atom are comparatively easy. But what of the look in a little child's eyes, the silhouette of a snowy peak against blue sky, the touch of loved lips, a sunset on the sea, the silence of an ancient forest?

These are the unfathomable things, the things of ever-new amazement. And I doubt if the men of Cambridge, or anyone else, will ever explain them.

LONDON: BRUISED AND EXHAUSTED ATMOSPHERE

Marriage—The Desperate Remedy

THE appeal last weekend by the Liberal leader, Mr. Jo Grimond, for a new progressive movement in British politics seems to have awakened varying responses in the Labor party.

For the most part, there appears to be hostility and suspicion which, the critics are sure, would be reflected at any party conference, even a short three-day post-election meeting.

On the other hand, some members of the Parliamentary Labor party — particularly in its Fabian moderate wing — are unlikely to shy away wholly from the idea. Even here, however, there seems to be some feeling that Mr. Grimond has jumped the gun.

The marriage, it is felt, should not have been referred to until there was at least some prospect at any rate of bargaining over a dowry.

The first quasi-official response to Mr. Grimond's overture may come on November 25 when Mr. R. Jenkins, formerly chairman of the Fabian Society and Labor MP for Stechford, is due to deliver the last of the autumn series of Fabian lectures.

In a recent article in the Spectator, Mr. Jenkins commented:

"On a whole range of foreign, colonial, and libertarian issues the best and most dominant Liberals now see completely eye to eye with the Labor party."

To the extent that these issues are important, it is surely extremely foolish for Labor and Liberal spokesmen to waste their energies in attacking each other. The overwhelming need is to canalize the anti-Tory vote into the most effective channels."

Brave Enough

Whether in the present "bruised and exhausted" atmosphere — the adjectives are Mr. Tom Driberg's — Mr. Jenkins will feel brave enough even in the unrestricted context of a Fabian gathering, to return to this theme must remain a point of conjecture.

Mr. Jenkins is known to have some allies, but not many, although it is suspected by his ill-wishers that they are all people who are in a position to bring influence to bear on the party leadership.

The principal problem for Mr. Gaitskill is one of priorities. Should not the Labor party, before making any formal move towards making the Liberal olive branch, first restore peace to its own household?

There were some ominous rumblings on Sunday from Mr. Bevan about the Labor party, "with the exception of steel and road haulage," having put socialism on one side and fought the election "on issues which can only be described as pre-1914 liberalism brought up to date."

Certainly the shuffling off of nationalization as a party dogma — which some Labor MPs are prepared to predict will cope in three months — seems the most crucial issue the party has to face.

Such a violation of the party's constitution — with its emphasis on "common ownership of the means of production, distribution and exchange" — appears certain to bring enough trouble in its train without adding the accusation of "a sell-out to the Liberals" to it.

None the less, a number of forward-looking Labor MPs are prepared to concede the possibility, when the Labor party has liberalized itself, of coming to some kind of electoral arrangement with the Liberal party. Any move in that direction would be sure to be hailed by the Conservatives — and probably by its Labor opponents — as "a shot-gun marriage."

In fact, the idea, as a result of the growing similarity between the two parties' views on colonial and foreign policy, has been informally canvassed for some months.

To its advocates the advantages have merely been underlined by an election result which gave the Conservatives a majority over all parties of one hundred in the Commons with a minority of the total votes cast in the country.

For the Liberal party, which now seems to have made the first public move, the proposal clearly has attractions. Its showing in the election, although superficially creditable, brought it no nearer to the reality of political power.

Even among amenable members of the Labor party there is at the moment no question of a merging of the two parties. The most that is envisaged is, however distant a future, is that the Labor party might, before the next election, decide to give Liberal candidates a clear run in seats in the West, country apart from the Labor seat at Falmouth and Camborne, and a few seats in Scotland where last week Labor votes gave victory to the Conservatives.

In return, the Liberals having proved their power to hurt Labor candidates without getting anywhere themselves, would promise not to do so again.

To most traditional Labor supporters — some with memories going back to 1906 — it will no doubt seem a desperate remedy, but then, as Mr. Grimond cunningly pointed out with his reference to the Left being "in opposition for years and years," so is the situation.

As Our Readers See It

Community Chest Costs

I am sure that many of us who contribute to the Community Chest each year would like to know (and should know) just how much of the contributions is deducted for salaries.

For instance, what salary does the present campaign manager receive, or does he come under the same status as ourselves, thus voluntary?

W. H. J. BENSON

Editor's Note: The Community Chest Board of Directors, the campaign manager, all committees, team captains and canvassers serve entirely without pay. The Chest employs a permanent staff of an executive secretary, an accountant and two stenographers who are engaged year-round on campaigns and the records necessary in handling nearly a third of a million dollars. While individual contributions are kept confidential, the books of the Chest are open to the public at any time, and an audited statement is available on request.

Disappointed

I just read Mr. Sutton's "Of All Places," Oct. 10, 1959, about St. Adelen-Haut, Quebec.

I always enjoy reading about his travels but this time I'm a wee bit disappointed as I happen to know the country he describes.

He derides the citizens' poor English. I know they speak it poorly and some not at all, but they try, which is more than we do for them when they come over here. But they don't say "Tink you" but "Thank you." He also wonders why they say "Poulet au Roi" instead of "Poulet au Roi." I guess they say it for the same reason we say "Pie a la mode" instead of "Pie in style."

Evidently he was interested only in food and drinks and the roads that led to those. He never saw the unforgettable sight of the Laurentians hills dressed in their fall coat made of a riot of colors from pale yellows to the deepest purple. It is as if he had gone to Niagara and not seen the falls.

However his article was so amusing that I mailed it to Mr. Caule-Henri Gagnon, the author and playwright who lives in the area hoping he finds it as interesting as I did.

More Power to Philip

I am a great admirer of Prince Philip.

In your issue of Friday of last week you have an item entitled "Philip On Wrong Wagon," which I consider totally and absolutely unjustified. I would like to point out that all that he criticized was the liquor laws — not the country or the government.

He is just as liable to do the same kind of thing in England next week. He has recently been on a tour through the Commonwealth and I have no doubt that here and there he has criticized all sorts of minor matters. I have not seen any complaints anywhere.

Did we have to wait till he reached Canada to find a man like the smug self-satisfied Rev. J. R. Mutchmor to object? You show the two photographs side by side. Which of the two has the better brain? Which of the two would you trust?

My view of the matter is that he is just the man we want. He is a great support and help to the Queen. He can and does do all kinds of extremely useful work that she could not do. More power to him!

East Sooke Road

With roads congested as they are one is amazed that the whole length of the East Sooke Road approximately eight or nine miles is not made safely negotiable.

About half the road has been blacktopped. That half winds along the scenic Sooke basin. The other half (not topped) leads out to Rocky Point, and is just a nightmare to drive. There are most magnificent views over Beecher Bay and the strait, but not one safe spot to stop and view same. Apart from both residents and tourists, the mail courier and commuters to Rocky Point, have to travel that dangerous road daily. Much more important still is the fact that a goodly number of school children have to walk a very long way over that same rough and dangerous road to catch their school bus, which takes them round to the West Sooke school although there is a nice little school in East Sooke, which obviously was built on impulse and a whim, a few years back, and has freakishly been closed ever since.

It is known that the government has not gone dormant over these matters, because as soon as a piece of property is sold, or subdivided, in the East Sooke area, immediate action is taken by the government. In confiscating some of the land on which taxes have, and are being, paid by the owner of occupier, and this without the slightest compensation for same. The taxes are not reduced. No, sir, they just soar in keeping with the extreme fiscal fashion.

The road is tattooed with "political" trade mark initials and signs of promises that have huddled and died. It now awaits the wave of the magic wand of the incomparable government now reigning in British Columbia. This is all a matter far above, and superior to, the sordidness of "political" ratonage. It is purely a question of public safety.

I had the pleasure of visiting your city in August and it sure was a pleasure.

I talked to many of them and lots who could not benefit from the tourist trade. They were as nice as all the rest.

New Field for Talk

NEW YORK—The United States, answering Russian disarmament proposals before the United Nations, has called for study of the means of establishing and controlling an international police force. U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge said that this might be studied at the talks of the newly formed Disarmament Commission. Mr. Lodge welcomed the spirit of the Russian proposals of complete disarmament, but he warned that the nations could not ignore the possibility of a limited advance.

Burke

Mr. Lodge's comments on an international police force caught the attention of the press, but some disarmament specialists described them as "window dressing."

"It was a theoretical reply to Mr. Khrushchev's theoretical proposals on total disarmament," one specialist commented.

This is not to say that the United States doesn't believe in an international police force, but it's still some distance in the future. The specialists are more interested in the smaller and less dramatic steps which might be taken here and now.

In this respect one word "political" may be more important than all the headline-catching things. Mr. Lodge said about a police force. He was referring to discussions of the political aspects of setting up a system to guard against surprise attack.

This doesn't sound interesting and was completely omitted from many news stories. For the experts, however, it meant that the United States is prepared to open up a new field for discussion.

First, however, it's necessary to go into the background. Last year a United States news agency carried an eye-witness story describing the way in which Strategic Air Command bombers are sent winging toward the Soviet Union when suspicious blips appear on radar screens. The Soviet Union called for a Security Council meeting and demanded that such flights be stopped.

The United States had to reply, so Ambassador Lodge stood up and said that flights would cease if Russia would agree to co-operate in establishing an international warning system. Americans admitted, privately, however, that they didn't know how such a system would work.

The result was a meeting last summer in Geneva to talk about technical means of guarding against surprise attack. Any such system involves inspection, however, and this may explain why the Russians turned up with political rather than technical plans, in particular, proposals for various zones in which systems might be set up. In other words, they emphasized "where" systems might be set up rather than "how."

Mr. Lodge insisted that the important thing is to find out first how to make it work, but he agreed to discuss the political aspects if that's the way the Russians want it.

This is surely uninspiring news for the layman, but for the experts it opens the way for another tiny step forward. They know that behind all the hypocrisy, cynicism and propaganda, there is a genuine desire on both sides to eliminate the deadly peril. Also, there is progress through the pressures and criticisms which each side brings to bear against the other.

The general view at the UN is that all these pressures have brought the two sides close enough together for some kind of agreement.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

A Harvest to Remember

LONDON—News from across the Channel is that the grape harvest that has just ended in France is greatest of the century, thanks to the incredible summer on this side of the Atlantic. And the champagne tycoons are hoping that '59 will be a vintage to remember.

They can't tell for sure because all they're certain now of is that they've got quantity. The tons of grapes have been turned into gallons of juice (four pounds of grapes equal one bottle of champagne), but this is only the first stage of the transformation.

In February of next year the juice is taken from the casks and blended and bottled and it is not until 1964, when it goes on the market, that they can get the verdict as to its quality.

But whether vintage '59 turns out to be the answer to a connoisseur's dream, there's going to be plenty of it to help keep up with the world annual consumption of 40,000,000 bottles.

Late Thursday some improvement in weather is expected along the coast.

The interior will be affected by the disturbances in that skies will remain cloudy, and some precipitation will fall. However, the systems will continue to weaken very rapidly as they cross the mountains.

HOME GARDEN

Big Splash, Little Work

Gardeners who intend developing a rock garden often plant annuals while the rock plants are being acquired or are growing to a size sufficient to give the needed color.

This is quite a standard practice, and one to be recommended to beginners. Each year the quantity of annuals needed to fill spaces becomes less, until rock plants are the only occupants of the area.

In choosing annuals for this work it pays to be more than a bit picky because an unwise selection can become a headache in the future.

REAL SPLASH

We are looking for plants which will give a startling splash of color for a long season, and yet require the minimum of attention.

It is not difficult to see why so many gardeners use the "Scottish" marigold, the dwarf tagetes, or the magnificent golden cups of the California poppy (eschscholtzia), because all these suit our requirements to a nicety.

But they are also potential headaches for the gardener. Once planted, they appear with a regularity which becomes alarming as years pass.

The almost round nasturtium seeds roll into every crack and crevice, and it takes a rough winter to prevent them from germinating the following spring.

SCATTERED

The lighter seeds of the marigolds and tagetes are scattered far and wide by the winds, to give a green carpet in spring which a lawn-mower would be pleased to achieve with grass.

And the California poppy, much as we love its brilliant gold, will not only return regularly to the rock garden, but everywhere else.

Years ago, I made the mistake of using these plants as temporary fill-ins for a new rock garden. A few years later the whole rock garden had to be remade because my fill-ins had become weeds.

WORK AT IT

If you have made the same mistake, take the time to rectify it before spring. Spend every minute you can spare gathering the scattered seed, even to the point of removing the top half inch of soil in order to destroy them.

Next year be picky in your choice of plants. Use those which perhaps do not flower for so long, or which may need a little more care and attention during the season, and make sure they are the ones which will not scatter seed unawares to plague your treasured rock plants in the years to come.

All-Commonwealth Phone Link Backed

CANBERRA, Australia (Reuters)—Postmaster-General Charles W. Davidson announced that the Inter-Commonwealth Conference which ended Tuesday in Sydney has decided that an undersea telephone linking Commonwealth countries is feasible.

Plans for the first stage of this Commonwealth telephone link had been agreed upon. This was to be a trans-Pacific large-capacity cable.

Anti-Inflation Policy Creating 'Safer Dollar'

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian dollar is sounder and more stable than it was a year ago, following the various anti-inflation measures taken, W. T. G. Hackett, assistant general manager of the Bank of Montreal, said Tuesday.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Hackett summed up the situation as follows:

"The money supply has been kept stable. The federal budget is moving closer to balance. And, in sharp contrast to the situation last year, the general public has, in the last 12 months, acquired close to $2,000,000,000 of federal government direct and guaranteed securities.

"This acquisition of government debt by the public is much larger than the concurrent increase in the debt itself which, during the 12 months, has been about $650,000,000.

LONG STEP

"A long step has therefore been taken in the direction of monetary stability; both the inflationary threat and attendant inflationary psychology have abated, and the consumer price index has remained practically dead-level since April, 1958."

The process, Mr. Hackett added, has not been painless.

HOLE IN POCKET

Lighter Pennies Proposed

LONDON (AP)—The Royal Mint finally came around Tuesday to a view Britons have held for years: British pennies are too big, too heavy and cause too many holes in trouser pockets.

J. H. James, deputy master and compiler of the Royal Mint, suggests in his annual report that the farthing—a quarter penny—be withdrawn and the half penny and penny be reduced in size and weight.

The British penny now is the largest coin of its value—a bit more than one cent—in Europe and possibly in the world. It measures nearly 1 1/4 inches across and weighs one-third of an ounce.

Because of rising prices, about the only thing the penny will buy in Britain these days is entrance to what is politely known as a public convenience. And some local authorities who operate such conveniences are thinking of charging two pence.

Newspapers that once cost a penny now cost three cents. A telephone call, once two pence, now is four pence.

This means people are carrying more and more pennies around and making more and more holes in their pockets from the sheer weight of coinage.

WEIGHED DOWN

It has become so bad that stores are selling ready-made pockets to replace those that are worn out. Cleaning firms do a booming business replacing worn pockets.

Some men who seem to walk with a list, as though a strong cross wind were blowing, are merely weighed down on one side by the pennies in their pocket.

James plans to end all that. But he will need treasury and parliamentary approval first. Even then it will be a big job.

There are 1,500,000,000 pennies—in circulation.

James contends that the farthing has finished its useful life. None has been minted since 1956. And although more than 750,000,000 have been struck since 1860 and few have been withdrawn, few circulate. James thinks that uncounted thousands of them must be lying around unused and unwanted in drawers and old cases.

48 Pearls in Oyster

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)—Charles Wantz, an oyster shucker at a Lancaster sea food market, opened an oyster Tuesday and found 48 pearls. Prof. John McDermott, biologist at Franklin and Marshall College, said that "48 pearls in a single oyster are unheard of as far as I know." Wantz gave the pearls to the school's biology department after jewelers said they were worthless.

U.K. Lifting Final Wraps On Austerity Restrictions

CRIME COMICS, censorship and obscene literature will be discussed by Arnold Edinborough, Toronto, at Monday meetings of the Men's and Women's Canadian Clubs in the Empress Hotel, Mr. Edinborough, editor of Saturday Night, is a member of the committee on salacious literature appointed by the Ontario attorney general.

Accused Son Stayed Home Say Parents

Mr. and Mrs. John Bullivant gave evidence Tuesday at the trial of their 17-year-old son, Stanley John Bullivant, charged with breaking and entering the Parkdale Service Garage, 3415 Douglas, between June 22 and 23 last and stealing heavy equipment.

The parents both testified their son was at home all night on those dates.

They said that he had suffered one broken rib and two cracked ribs a few days before and was bound up in wide tape.

COULDN'T LIFT

Consequently, the parents said, he could not have lifted the heavy power tools and welding equipment said to have been stolen from the service station.

The proprietors estimated the replacement value of these tools at between $1,500 and $2,000. All were later recovered.

Questioned by Joseph McKenna, Q.C., his defence counsel, Stanley Bullivant told of giving Saanich police officers a series of statements implicating himself in the break-in.

MAKE IT EASIER

He gave these statements, he said, because he thought that in view of his record in juvenile court he would be convicted anyway and believed this might make things easier for him.

"Did you break into the service station?" asked Mr. McKenna.

"Definitely not," Bullivant replied.

"Why did you give the statements?"

"It was just my own idea to get off more easily when convicted, as I was sure I would be."

The trial continued today with cross-examination by Crown prosecutor R. A. Woolton, Q.C.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court Tuesday: Victor Delmar Harrison, 809 Linden, $15 for failing to stop at a red light.

William A. Rosemus, 3522 Wishart, $25 for speeding over 30.

Thomas B. L. Crease, 1075 St. David, $40 and licence suspension for careless driving.

Harry F. Austin, 833 Admirals, $25 for violation of driver's licence restriction.

Kaye Edward Klecken, 3084 Jacklin, $15 for driving without brakes and $10 for driving without a horn.

Narcotics Crackdown

TORONTO (CP) — RCMP and Toronto morality officers

Tuesday arrested two more persons to bring to 190 the number charged with narcotics offences here since Jan. 1. Barbara Borden, 415 Elms, 26, was charged with trafficking and Marlene Harrison, 27, was charged with illegal possession.

LONDON (CP) — Britain is gradually getting back to the stage where the customer always is right.

With the last wraps of wartime austerity unwinding one by one, British consumers and tourists may soon have complete freedom.

In one big step this week the government virtually lifted the last of its price controls, a move which means that Britons may take abroad. For the first time since the 1930s, British tourists will therefore be able to spend as much on overseas travel as they wish and can afford.

The removal of the restrictions should make it possible for more Britons to visit Canada and the United States. By European standards, travel to North America is expensive and few Britons considered the rigid allowance of roughly $275 adequate for such a journey.

The treasury relaxation is another major step in removing the restrictions against dollar-area countries. These controls were viewed as essential after the Second World War to conserve the dwindling dollar supply.

The scrapping of the discriminatory quotas on dollar goods is the only major step that has to be taken before completely free exchanges between Canada and Britain can be achieved.

During the recent Commonwealth finance ministers conference here, Finance Minister Fleming urged Britain and other sterling-area countries to scrap barriers against dollar goods.

Dollar goods still subject to restrictions include textiles and clothing, meat, fish, paperback books, canned fruit, plastics and other petrochemicals products and pharmaceutical products.

All of these goods can be imported without control from Western European countries, which are now economically healthy.

Educational Equality Asked for B.C. Indians

GEORGE WHEATON

'100 YEARS OF FARMING'

DUNCAN—Willard Ireland, provincial archivist, will outline "100 Years of Agriculture in the Cowichan Valley" as guest speaker at the Cowichan Exhibition annual prize-giving banquet Nov. 12 in the R. of P. Hall at 7:30 p.m.

Guests will include Mayor and Mrs. J. T. Dobson; Reeve and Mrs. C. A. P. Murison; Robert Strachan, M.L.A. Cowichan, Newcastle, and Mrs. H. B. Mathews; Mr. and Mrs. Ken Jamieson, representing the department of agriculture, and Agriculture Minister Newton Steacy and Mrs. Steacy.

Educational equality for Indian children was advocated to the B.C. School Trustees' Association convention Tuesday by Rev. Peter R. Kelly, a Haida Indian from Nanaimo.

"I don't think there should be two school systems in the province," he told the trustees in the Empress Hotel. "I think every youngster in this province should have the opportunity to attend in one school system."

He pointed out that since 1950 the federal government has allowed Indian children in the province to attend regular public schools wherever school trustees have also given their consent.

"The Indian people now have the right, if school trustees agree. I urge upon you to consider that very seriously," he said.

Rev. Kelly pointed out that at present only 2,825 of the province's 8,775 Indian pupils attend integrated schools.

Trustees also were urged to give serious consideration to another problem by Deputy Education Minister Dr. J. F. K. English.

LITTLE NEED

If the Union of B.C. Municipalities proposal that the provincial government pay all school operating costs was realized, it would mean the province would have to control all aspects of education too.

"In other words there would be little need for boards of school trustees to make any local decisions," he said.

He pointed out that if the province supplied all the money, it would have to take over full control to ensure funds were used equitably across the province.

"Surely such a plan of centralization would be a decidedly retrograde step so far as the interests of education are concerned," he said.

Victoria school trustee, Richard Reeve, told the convention he was confused.

"They say nice things about us and then they say this," he said. "What possible difference should it make whether the taxpayers contribute at the local or indirectly to the provincial treasury?"

SKILLED SEAMEN SOON RETRIEVE CHIP BARGE

Expert seamanship in a heavy southeast blow retrieved a log chip barge off Port Renfrew Tuesday after a tow line parted and the barge drifted away from its tug, the Johnstone Straits of Vancouver.

It was an accident which occurs rarely in tow-boating. The tow was rescued in less than an hour by two seamen who rowed across to the barge with a new tow line.

The tug was travelling from Victoria to a pulp and paper mill near Port Townsend. The 300-foot barge was loaded with wood chips.

Tug and tow are owned by Straits Towing Co. Ltd.

RETIRED PRESIDENT HONORED

He Saw Exhibition Through Bad Years

DUNCAN — Cowichan Exhibition, five-year president Archie Stevenson received a standing ovation from the board of directors for "seeing the exhibition through its bad years," when he retired after reading his final report at the annual meeting Monday.

As chairman of the planning board, a position I am prepared to continue with if it be the wish of the board, my recommendations for the 1960 program would be: A large barn erected to stable a portion of our light horse section, a cattle barn and a sheep barn," Mr. Stevenson said.

"We want to be very careful in our development of our grounds and not overstep ourselves, but always try to stage an exhibition that the community can support."

He said that "staging this year's exhibition was carried out with the greatest community effort I have ever seen in all my experience with fairs."

John Kerrone, Duncan aid-erman, was named president of the Cowichan Exhibition. The executive includes: H. Whitfield, first vice-president; A. Stewart, second vice-president; and A. Moffatt, third vice-president.

Bouncing Fireball Seen by Hunters

NANAIMO — Story of a fireball which bounced along the ground, and gave out streaks of light similar to lightning flashes, was told here by six hunters on their return from an overnight trip into the woods west of Nanaimo.

Harry Lomass, Jingle Pot Road, said he saw the object three miles from his tent well before dawn Sunday morning. He called his sleeping companions and they watched it with him.

Mr. Lomass said the object bounced up and down, "as if picking up samples," then withdrew to a point eight miles away. Later, it returned to a hill known as Lone Mount and continued its apparent bounding along the ground. Finally it speeded off to the west, lingered in the sky for an hour, then disappeared.

With Mr. Lomass at the time were Corvin Lomass, Raymond Jacobs, Eugene Jacobs, Ernie Toth and V. M. Her- means.

THERAPIST HAILED BY ARTHRITIS SUFFERERS

An 'Angel' From Newcastle

RHONA ASHLEE GANGES — It was a happy day for arthritis sufferers here — and at other points on Vancouver Island — when Miss E. Dixon, physiotherapist, decided to "leave" Newcastle, England, for Canada.

Miss Dixon is in charge of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society clinic at Lady Minto Gulf Islands Hospital, Victoria, B.C.

Thursday from her home in Nanaimo.

HOUSE CALLS

In addition to her hospital work she makes house calls and visits a private nursing home.

She left England because many of her friends had left Newcastle for foreign travel, and she too decided to seek some "faff" lands. Arriving on the west coast in March, she took a course in Vancouver, then was placed in charge of the Nanaimo clinic.

She now serves clinics at Nanaimo, Ganges, Parksville, Chemainus, and Duncan.

OPENED MAY 21

The Ganges clinic came into being following a visit by Miss Mary Pack, a C.A.R.S. official, who found no facilities

Equipment here now includes a Guthrie-Smith suspension apparatus, infra-red heat lamp and radiant heat cradle.

Miss Dixon has said she needs a wax bath, which heats a mixture of paraffin and mineral oil to 110 degrees Fahrenheit, for coating of afflicted hands and feet in heat treatments.

MANAGEMENT, LABOR

Labor Bill Debate At Nanaimo Sunday

Victoria and Vancouver representatives of management and labor will debate the controversial "Bill 43" at a public meeting at Nanaimo Sunday.

Victoria lawyer Louis F. Lindholm, Victoria contractor George Wheaton, B.C. Federation of Labor secretary Pat O'Neal and Alberni CCF MLA John Squire will form a panel on the topic at a CCF membership rally and public meeting.

Topic will be "Will Bill 43 promote peaceful labor-management relations?"

The bill, officially known as the "Fraternal Unions Act," was passed at the last legislative session. It restricts picketing and makes both labor and management responsible for any illegal action in strike or lockout proceedings.

The panel discussion takes place at the new Nanaimo CCF Hall on Wharf Street. The event is the annual conference of Island CCF members which normally draws a crowd of about 200.

ISLAND BRIEFS

New Central Post Office Chamber Aim

LADYSMITH — The Chamber of Commerce here has prepared a brief advocating construction of a new post office at High Street and First Avenue, in the heart of the business district.

Such a building would give access from two streets, eliminate much of the walking up and down hill to the present office, and accommodate the RCMP and customs service.

It also would eliminate a traffic problem at the present building on the Trans-Canada Highway at Roberts Street.

CHEMAINUS — Mrs. Lucille Hatton, who has been playing cribbage for just a year, came up with a perfect 29 hand Sunday, something many players fail to accomplish in a lifetime.

Playing with a friend, Mrs. Jean Mawson, Mrs. Hatton held the jack of hearts and three fives. She cut the five of hearts to complete the perfect hand.

Both Mrs. Hatton and Mrs. Mawson were so excited they couldn't count the big hand. It took their husbands to authenticate the perfect score.

GANGES — W. H. Bradley, president of the newly-formed Salt Spring Island Lions Club, has named the following committee chairman:

Jack McNulty, finance; Walter Mailey, membership; Daryl Logan, constitution and by-laws; Bill Treford, rifle contest; Henry McGill, civic improvement; Robert Vance, boys and girls activities; Fred Spracklin, archives; Ed Richardson, Easter seals.

GANGES — Provincial horticulturist A. C. Carter, and B.C. Farmers' Institute head Lieut. Col. L. W. Johnson were guest speakers at the regular Salt Spring Island Farmer's Institute here.

Col. Johnson discussed the institutes and their functions, while Mr. Carter spoke on the growing of fruits and vegetables. Dr. A. Francis showed color slides of his recent European trip.

Duncan Gets Girl Guides' Tulip Bulbs

(From Duncan Bureau)

A shipment of Golden Harvest tulip bulbs has arrived in Duncan from Holland, part of a huge order of three-quarters of a million bulbs to be planted by Girl Guide companies and Brownie packs from coast to coast to mark the golden jubilee of Guiding in Canada in 1960.

The Cowichan district tulips ordered by the district Guides and Brownies, will be planted Saturday at the Chamber of Commerce garden as a "thank you" to the community for its co-operation with the Guide movement since its formation here.

The girls themselves will do the planting under the direction of Mrs. A. Falconbridge, district commissioner.

Don't Ask Ottawa for Money Fleming Tells Cities, Provinces

HALIFAX (CP)—Finance Minister Fleming Tuesday night cautioned against provincial and municipal demands on the federal government that would have inflationary results.

Provincial and municipal governments "in their own interests... should support the federal government in its efforts to combat the perils of inflation," he said in a speech to the Atlantic tax conference here.

Mr. Fleming ruled out as being unworkable, the proposal that the central government should provide for special low interest rates on loans in the Atlantic provinces.

"The federal government has no shortcut to lower interest rates," he said. "If one existed, the federal government would not have overlooked it in its own behalf."

COUNTRY ILL SERVED SAYS ECONOMIST

Tories Pass Buck on Tight Money

MONTREAL (CP)—A Montreal economist said Tuesday the Progressive Conservative government is "doing the country a disservice" in trying to disown its responsibility for Canada's tight money policy.

In a speech to the Progress Club here Tuesday economist D. Harvie Hay, 36, discussed the events and pressures leading to the present paucity of money for loans.

Mr. Hay said he believes that "by attempting to avoid its share of responsibility for a beneficial but unpopular policy, by attempting to blame its own child, the Bank of Canada, and by using the chartered banks as whipping boys, by confusing the issue with arguments which are sometimes irrelevant and sometimes false, the government is doing the country a disservice which may, in the long run, prove even more harmful than their courageous action has proved beneficial."

Mr. Hay is research director of Economic Research Corporation, a private firm of consulting economists.

WINNIPEG BRIDGE OPENED

WINNIPEG (CP)—The $2,000,000 Disraeli bridge, twice defeated in bylaws by Winnipeg ratepayers, was officially opened Tuesday, giving Metropolitan Winnipeg a new traffic artery over the Red River to the downtown area.

A breeze-chilled crowd of more than 1,000 looked on as Premier Duff Roblin and Mayor Stephen Juba of Winnipeg cut the ribbon officially opening the bridge which connects the Elmwood district with the Point Douglas area northeast of the Canadian Pacific Railway station in north-central Winnipeg.

Three rockets boomed into the air at the ceremony, symbolizing the financial contributions of the province, city and East Kildonan to the costs of the bridge and connecting $3,200,000 freeway link, still to be completed. The freeway was finally approved by ratepayers after the bridge itself was started.

The Disraeli bridge is only the second river crossing built in Greater Winnipeg since 1917.

The truck driver, Jack Scott of Toronto, was taken to hospital in serious condition, suffering burns and shock.

TORONTO KEEPS WATCH ON TUNNEL

Cave-Ins Threaten Subway

TORONTO (CP)—Fear of cave-ins on a tunnel section of the city's new subway line was expressed Tuesday by Norman Wilson, Toronto Transit Commission consultant.

Mr. Wilson said construction of 2,000 feet of subway tunnel, 20 feet underground on University Avenue and through Queen's Park, must be kept under 24-hour supervision. Preliminary tests show poor soil conditions exist, he said.

This was complicated by a large amount of water.

Fear of cave-ins caused the commission to reject an offer by Robert McAlpine Limited to save $32,000 in construction costs by not digging an exploratory tunnel in the vicinity of two subway station sites.

The firm was awarded a $7,659,000 contract to build the tunnel section three weeks ago. Construction is expected to start in December on the University Avenue section of the line.

Prime Grid Beef

By OSCAR FRALEY
NEW YORK (UPI) — Red Grange, the old "galloping ghost" of the Illinois, was talking on the 35th anniversary of the Michigan game in which he scored four touchdowns in 12 minutes, about the amazing size of the college players today.

"We had our big ones, too," he said. "But now they are all big and there isn't a slow-footed one in the whole crowd."

Which points up the fact that from the fanciest football factory on down to the lowliest of the "little" colleges, all of them are displaying the greatest collection of "beef" in college football annals.

As example down in Atlanta last Saturday the Plainsmen of Auburn, knocked Georgia Tech out of the ranks of the unbeaten. The balance of power was a pleasant young man named Ken Rice, who played like a cagefull of wildcats.

And 250 pounds of wildcat is a heap of enraged carnivori.

PROS EVEN LARGER

Yet Rice is merely representative of the size of the current football students tutoring in touchdowns while they grow to full size and become eligible for post-graduate duties in the lucrative pro football field. There the lines are even larger with defensive specialists nudging the avoidance needle at from 260 to 270 pounds on the meaty average.

Football's formula for team composition long has called for the tall, stringy-type a la Don Hutson to play at end. This was predicated on the theory that such young gentlemen were fleet of foot and could launch themselves higher than the defensive secondary to grab off passes.

But today, while height still is an advantage, your top ends are in the 220 to 225-pound category. Two prime examples are Florida's Dave Hudson, "only" six-one but a fluid 225 pounds, and six-foot four-inch Curt Merz of Iowa, more along the classic pattern for ends in build but still packing 225 pounds.

HATCHET MEN

Tackles always have been the workhorses of the line and Lou Little, the erstwhile Columbia coach, always said, "Give me two big tackles and a rugged fullback and I'll give you a winning football team."

Well, these hatchet men naturally are the meatiest of the collegiate lot and the top "boys" include such as 245-pounders Jim Prestel of Idaho and Don Stallings of North Carolina; 240-pounders Lou Cordleone of Clemson and Palmer Pyle of Michigan State, and 235-pounders like Don Deskins of Michigan, Len Rohde of Utah State and Gene Gossage of Northwestern.

Weight is sacrificed somewhat for mobility in the guard department, the general average being 200 to 210 pounds. Yet you have such economy-sized gems as Mississippi's 220-pound Marvin Terrell and Holy Cross' 225-pound Vin Pro-muto.

RED MAY BE HAPPY

Okay, you say, but these are exceptional cases of outstanding stars on "big" college teams. Not at all. The "little" schools, too, have more beef than you'll see in the Kansas City stockyards.

San Luis Obispo, known also as California Poly, has a pair of tacklers named Sylvester Cooper and Pat Lovell who weigh 270 and 240 pounds respectively.

Then there's Southwest Texas State, whose tackle Ace Fuller, is 270 pounds and, if that doesn't twirl your eyeballs, Washington University's Mike Metzger—at 275 pounds.

No matter where you look, they're big and they're brawny. Secretly, Grange probably is happy he doesn't have to be bouned by those behemoths of today without wondering what the next 35 years will bring.

Courage Only Thing Neill Able To Show

LONDON (AP) — World featherweight champion Davey Moore took just two minutes, 55 seconds to batter Bobby Neill, British titleholder, to a humiliating defeat Tuesday night.

With barely a bead of sweat on his body after the fight, the 26-year-old champion from Springfield, Ohio, said:

"Boy, I wish they were all like that. I caught him right on the button."

Neill, 26, who made three comebacks after suffering crippling injuries in road accidents and a broken jaw in a

TIPTOE THROUGH THE CORNSTALKS

This needs an explanation: In first year of football, Wapsie Valley High School in northeast Iowa plays its games on field next to cornfield. Every time there's a kick for an extra point, an official has to retrieve ball from cornstalks. That's what Bill Murphy is doing here. He had six trips into corn as Wapsie whipped New Hartford, 34-14. (AP Wirephoto.)

WALKER BEST IN LINE

Bomber Half Voted West's Top Rookie

REGINA (CP) — Halfback Henry Jansen of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers has been named rookie-of-the-year and tackle Art Walker of the Edmonton Eskimos the top line man in the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

League secretary R. H. Gillies of Regina announced this morning that Jansen headed the poll in balloting for the Dr. Beattie Martin Trophy while Walker was the choice of selectors for the Demarco-Beckett Trophy.

Edmonton halfback Howie Schumm was runner-up to Jansen for rookie honors with fullback Doug Mackenzie of Saskatchewan Roughriders next in line.

Guard Herb Gray of Winnipeg finished second to Walker, who also won the trophy as best lineman the first year it was up for competition in 1957. The winner last year was tackle Don Luzzi of Calgary Stampeders, who was the third choice this year.

Vikings Post Win In Season Opener

Tom Wyatt stepped right back into the role he held last season as captain and field general of the British Columbia champion Victoria High School Totems, Tuesday night.

Elected team captain just prior to their game against Royal Roads, at Mount View High School gym, Wyatt guided Victoria College Vikings "As" to a 44-33 win in their first game of the Victoria Basketball League season.

TAKES NEW ROLE

But Robin Barnes assumed a new role and declared himself of basketball age in the game, after playing second string last season with the Totems, as he paced the Viking win with 11 points, going both ways in an outstanding effort.

In preliminary action, Victoria Juniors led all the way in handing Naval Vets' senior women a decisive 34-24 lacing. Shirley Crowe notched 14 points.

Milly Colquhoun led Naval Vets with 11 points.

NARROW LEAD

Royal Roads held Vikings to a narrow 28-21 lead through the first half of play. But, after Vikings stalled through most of the third quarter in trying to draw the Cadets out of their tight zone defence, the Collegians broke loose to out-score Royal Roads 16-12 to hold their lead.

Next league action will be Thursday night at the same hall, with Viking "B's" meeting Navy after a preliminary featuring Vikettes and Hudson's Bay women.

Vic. College — Wyatt 2, Black 6, Lohmeyer 6, Wright, Barnes 11, Wilson, Soffer 1, Littleton 6, Nelson 11, Mitchell 4. Total 44.

Flyers Won't Help Cats Change Scoring Pattern

Alberta Club Clips Comets; Face Cougars Here Tonight

Victoria Cougars' early-season pattern in the Western Hockey League has been one of low-scoring games.

Cougar coach Hal Laycoe doesn't expect the odds to change just because Edmonton Flyers pop into Memorial Arena tonight for their first visit of the season.

Laycoe didn't come right out and predict a scoreless tie, but the inference was there. A 0-0 game is possible.

Flyers, who Tuesday night stretched their unbeaten streak to four games by edging Spokane Comets 2-1, have one of the best rearguard units in the seven-team league.

That's Laycoe's own admission. And big Harold also believes his team boasts a fairly sound defence (eight goals scored against the Cats in five games).

And as much as Harold would like to see a goal-scoring spree on the part of Victoria forwards, he doesn't believe it will happen tonight.

"Dennis Riggan is one of the best goalies around and that defence of (Rud) MacPherson, (Dave) Amadio, (Gord) Strate and (Lloyd) Haddon must be as good as any in the league," Laycoe observed this morning.

It was Riggan who saved the day for Edmonton Tuesday night. He made a sensational grab in the last minute of play against Spokane's Buddy Bodman to preserve Flyers' 2-1 victory.

Front-Runners Preserve Margin

Victory shot Edmonton into sole possession of second place, five points behind the front-running Vancouver Canucks who tripped Seattle Totems 5-2 in the night's only other game.

First-period goals by Eddie Diachuk and Gord Labossiere, a pair of sophomore speedsters, gave Edmonton its win. Ching Johnson accounted for Spokane's tally, hitting on a screened drive with Flyers short-handed through a penalty.

Riggan, a 23-year-old who appears to have recovered fully from an eye injury suffered last year, turned in a standard performance. He stopped 28 shots in lowering his goals-against average to 2.8. Rival goalie Emile Francis stopped 36 and had little chance on the two that beat him.

At Vancouver, Canucks turned in a steadier and faster performance than Totems to score their victory before a rainy-night turnout of about 2,000 fans.

Canucks went ahead 2-0 before seven minutes had passed in the first period, scored another in the second while Seattle picked up its first goal and then outscored Totems 2-1 in the final period.

Eddie Dorohoy, a star for the home team, scored a goal and an assist and Ralph Keller matched the output. Other Vancouver singles came from former Cougar Colin Kilburn, Les Colwill and Dave Duke.

Seattle scorers were Bill MacFarland and Eddie Stankiewicz.

The game's high speed was hardly indicated by the stops. In the Seattle net, Bev Bentley handled 27 while Hank Basen, another Vancouver stand-out, kicked out 26.

"Canucks dominated the first period, Seattle checked harder in the final 40 minutes but couldn't shake the stubborn Canuck defence."

ROYALS FANS NOW CHEER FOR COUGARS

In New Westminster there are hockey fans where there isn't even a team. Saturday they'll be at Victoria's Memorial Arena.

Members of New Westminster Royals' Fan Club, the group of 50, will still be following the fortunes of six of their former players, swelling the crowd when Victoria Cougars play Edmonton Flyers.

After sale of the New Westminster franchise last season the club refused to disband and have requested 50 tickets to watch former-Royals Pete Wright, Gordon Fashaway, Ron Matthews, Arnie Schmutz, Art Jones and Arlo Goodwin in action for Victoria.

Gilchrist now has 68 points on five touchdowns, 14 converts and eight field goals. He is 14 points in front of Hamilton's Ron Howell.

FAMED ATHLETE DIES ...

He Never Drew a Penalty

MONTREAL (CP) — Clarence Douglas MacKerrow, 83, who was on the team that won the first Stanley Cup in 1894, died Tuesday.

One of the all-time greats of Canadian sport, he was as good a defenceman in lacrosse as a forward in hockey.

He was captain of the Canadian lacrosse team that won a gold medal in the Olympic games of 1908.

He coached, managed and played for the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association hockey team that won the Stanley Cup in 1902, a team immortalized in Montreal history as "The Little Men of Iron."

In 1893, when Canada's Governor-General Lord Stanley of Preston put up a $50 trophy for the Canadian senior amateur hockey champion-ship, Clarence MacKerrow was a 17-year-old substitute for MAAA.

He weighed only 115 pounds and was considered too young and too light. Teams carried only one spare then, and spares were never used unless regular players were missing.

Flyers Won't Help Cats Change Scoring Pattern

Alberta Club Clips Comets; Face Cougars Here Tonight

PAIR OF ACES with Edmonton's Western Hockey League deck are Hugh Coffin (right) and Murray Oliver. Veteran Coffin is talented member of seasoned defence, while the sophomore Oliver, who has figured in 10 of Flyers' 19 goals, is prize package in Edmonton's collection of young forwards. Flyers make season's first appearance at Memorial Arena against Cougars tonight at 8.30.

DANGER OF COLLAPSE

Another Crisis For New Loop

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Continental League, which presently carries Canada's hopes of entering big time baseball, faces one of its biggest hurdles Thursday in New York.

The city board of estimate is to vote then on authorizing survey funds a mere $200,000 for the proposed stadium in Flushing Meadows in Queens Borough to be used by the CL team-in-New York.

At the eleventh hour, city comptroller Lawrence Gerosa, who has a habit of upsetting apple carts, is raising objections. He wants to move the proposed new stadium across the east river to the Bronx.

Lawyer Bill Shea, the organizer of the CL, has blasted Gerosa's attempt to delay things. Shea warned that failure to act now on the Flushing Meadows stadium almost certainly would mean collapse of the whole CL scheme. The wealthy backers simply would not hold still for any doubts or delays about New York.

VETED GRIFF'S PLAY

Conceivably, Gerosa could block approval of Flushing Meadows if he could swing the votes in the board of estimate from the Bronx.

The New York crisis for the CL backers follows hard on the one in Minneapolis-St. Paul, where owner Calvin Griffith of the Washington Senators tried to grab the twin-city territory out from under the noses of Shea and Continental president Branch Rickey. But five American League clubs vetoed Griffith's play.

In addition to the New York problem, the CL has a wing ding in another of its prospective cities—Houston, Tex. Rickey is making a trip to Houston, ostensibly just to discuss with city officials plans for a huge $20-million sports centre including a ball park. Houston voters already have approved the plan.

TO BOLSTER SENTIMENT

What Rickey really is after in Houston is to bolster sentiment for a CL entry, which is being combatted vigorously by the owners of the Houston club of the American Association. This group is headed by Marty Marion, the all-time great St. Louis Cardinal shortstop and ex-manager of three big league clubs.

A group of wealthy Texans has just bought up a lot of the club's stock and given Marion apparently strong backing in his expressed determination to hold out and ultimately get Houston into either the National or American League instead of the Continental.

Ol' Diz Charming But Domineering

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Sports-caster Buddy Blattner has confirmed reports that a personal difference with Dizzy Dean prompted him to resign from a contract said to call for $75,000 a year.

The 40-year-old former major league infielder said he had asked for and received his release because he no longer wanted to work with Dean, former pitching great.

Blattner said Dean insisted that their sponsor withdraw approval for him to work the National League playoff games between Milwaukee and Los Angeles.

"Diz can be charming," Blattner said. "But he likes to push people around. I had made up my mind he'd do it only once to me."

Blattner said Dean was "apparently miffed because the network and sponsor didn't want him" to handle the television commentary on the playoffs.

Dean and Blattner had been radio and TV partners for years.

MacKerrow spent the whole regular season on the bench. His break came when MAAA won the Quebec championship and went against Queen's University, Ontario champions.

MAAA centre Billy Barlow had to miss the first game and MacKerrow took to the ice, scored a fast goal, and led MAAA to the cup. He was never a bench warmer again.

Silent Joe Lets His Actions Do the Talking

BY ERNIE FEDORUK

Four years have been marked off the calendar since Joe Kurylo first decided to seek out warmer winter climates than those offered by the prairie provinces.

The burly but agile football player introduced himself to Victoria fans in 1956 by earning all-star ranking in the city's three-team intermediate league.

It is safe to suggest that the transportation companies haven't produced a better line-man since then.

This does not mean that the Chamber of Commerce or Vancouver Island's publicity bureau has fallen down on the job.

Linemen of Kurylo's ilk are not exactly commonplace in intermediate football. But, because the sun and salt air breezes soothe Kurylo, Victoria Drakes don't particularly care if the transportation companies or the Chamber of Commerce concern themselves with importing football talent.

Even if they did, chances are they wouldn't come up with a tackle who is a consistent all-star, appreciates the climate and says nothing.

That's Kurylo's footballing quiet man.

If he's so good, then why isn't he playing professional?

That's a fair question, friend. It's possible he could have still been playing professional football but for two items.

They are: (1) he turned his back on Western Interprovincial Union contract with Saskatchewan Roughriders just when his football future seemed brightest; (2) a recurring knee injury.

Five years ago the 26-year-old Kurylo was good enough to draw a sweater number and to have his picture placed in the Saskatchewan program.

He dressed for several league games regularly and practiced faithfully. That is, he practiced faithfully until the late Mario DeMarco threw one of his fine blocks at Kurylo.

Caught unawares and off-balance, Joe suffered a knee injury that was to plague him at various intervals during the next five years.

It was the practice of Frank Filchok, coach of the Riders at that time, to bring his Canadian talent along slowly.

Some experts believed Filchok brought his homebrews along too slowly. Today those experts point a knowing finger at Ron Adam, Saskatchewan's substitute quarterback, who was a sensation at 19 and a Rider bench-warmer at 20 and even since Adam has never quite reached the plateau of greatness predicted for him.

The finger swings back to Filchok's methods.

Kurylo was one of those who couldn't understand the "coming along slowly" method.

The quiet man doesn't want to blame anyone but himself for not becoming a regular. "I was young then," he says, "and I sure wanted to play."

Joe's knee injury midway in the season kept him out of action for the rest of the season, and the next year the Regina-born lineman bought a ticket to Victoria where, he was led to believe, he could play regularly.

He's not sorry, and neither is Jack Patrick, the Drakes' coach.

He's one of the most valuable players in the Pacific Coast Conference," Patrick said Tuesday. "His greatest asset? Blocking... he just doesn't miss when he throws a block.

"Kurylo is also one of our best defensive tackles. I don't like using him two ways, but I have to at times because I know he'll do the job."

Kurylo, who will lead the Drakes against Vancouver Wildcats at Royal Athletic Park Saturday afternoon, is also an outstanding team man well-liked by his mates. That was pointed out recently when the players named him as team spokesman in their talks with the coach.

Kurylo has one fault. That is the amount of talking he does... he would never make the grade with the publicity bureau.

OUTDOOR REPORT BY Doug Peden

If anyone happens to run across a sassy sea lion wearing a Mac's Squid Plug on his lower jaw, I'd be interested in hearing about it.

Not that I expect to get my plug back; it has already been written off to experience and is probably beyond the usable stage by now. But I'm curious to know if the big guy who swiped it will get into any more mischief.

Perhaps I'd better go back a bit. Sunday's weather tempted us to take the boat out from Cadboro Bay during the afternoon, mostly for a pleasure cruise but also on the chance we might tangle with one of the few salmon that have been hanging around those waters.

Except for an hour or so that fog socked everything in, it was one of the year's best boating days. Shortly after the mist lifted in late afternoon, we enjoyed watching a big sea lion playing around about 100 yards astern, apparently following our course.

Sea lions temporarily became of secondary importance when a salmon grabbed a Mac's Squid plug near Jimmy Jones Island. For a few minutes everything was going fine. The fish, which appeared to be a spring around 12 pounds, was almost played out and aft but in the net when a brown streak flashed about 10 feet behind the boat and a few feet under the surface.

Maybe the Big Guy Was Showing Off

It was the lion, travelling at surprising speed in the clear water. He grabbed the salmon amidships and kept going with the reel wailing like a banshee. Since there didn't appear much percentage in trying to play a critter of something like 1,500 pounds with a 15-pound-test leader, I clamped down on the reel and that was it.

The salmon-snatcher surfaced approximately 50 yards astern with the fish clamped squarely between his jaws. And as he turned to stare at us for a few seconds, I was willing to swear he was just showing off.

He splashed around for several minutes as if having trouble and after he had disposed of the fish, it seemed that the plug was lodged in his lower jaw.

That was the end of our acquaintance. I was out only a plug and a fish but he seemed destined to have a tooth-ache for a while.

All of which probably proves nothing except that sea lions can really carry the mail under water. It could also offer another rebuttal to those who claim they never eat salmon.

Sea lions, of course, are a constant nuisance to commercial fishermen because of the damage they occasionally inflict on nets. Some lions also get pretty cute at snatching salmon off lines, but this is the first time I have known one to commit robbery so close to a boat.

California big horn sheep may be on their way back to the status of a game animal in Washington through the courtesy of the British Columbia game branch.

The California big horn is actually native to Washington but became extinct in the state about 30 years ago. In 1957 the B.C. game branch trapped 15 big horns in the Williams Lake area and presented them to our neighbors to the south.

Released in the 15,000-acre Sinalake game farm, situated five miles south of Loomis, the herd was increased by the arrival of six lambs in the spring of 1958. Ten more youngsters came along this year and with a 100 per cent survival the herd has more than doubled.

State game officials are planning to trap 15 of the animals this month and transfer them to the Tucannon game range in the Blue Mountains.

The manner in which the transplanted sheep have been thriving south of the border has revived hopes that they will be released in other areas in a few years and eventually be classed as legal game again.

In the meantime, they are serving as excellent tourist attractions at Sinalake and as another reminder of the fine co-operation between B.C. and Washington wildlife departments.

MacKay Joins Vienna Team

NANAIMO (CP)—Local lacrosse star Skip MacKay said Tuesday he will leave next week to take up duties as playing coach for a hockey club in Vienna.

He said negotiations for his contract, which will keep him with the Austrian club from Nov. 1 to Feb. 28, were completed Monday night.

A former International League hockey player, MacKay has also been prominent in lacrosse and was voted most valuable player in the Mann Cup lacrosse finals last year. He played with the Nanaimo Labatts lacrosse team last summer and has been working out recently with the Nanaimo senior hockey team.

ONTARIO DISCOURAGES CAPITALISTIC PRACTICE

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Curling Association Tuesday approved regulations limiting the value of prizes for which an amateur player can compete and prohibiting curlers from competing in any bonspiel where the value of any prize exceeds $150 a curler or $600 a rink.

The rules also prohibit compensation for use of a curler's name or likeness in commercial advertising, or for ghost-written articles.

The rules on prizes, in effect, prohibit Ontario curlers from competing in any western automobile bonspiels and will require sponsors of some competitions to reduce the value of prizes.

The OCA now has 185 clubs and a membership of 21,888, an increase of 25 clubs and 3,170 members over last year, it was announced.

Take Your Pick--- There's Plenty

TIME OUT!

BY JEFF KEATE

"With all the injuries we've had, we may have to make a drastic move and use students on the team!"

LONDON (AP)—Courts Appeal today joined the top 10 in betting for the Cambridgehire Handicap next Wednesday—one of the last big events of the British horse racing season.

Bookmakers clipped Courts Appeal's odds to 22 to 1 from 33 to 1 after the Irish-trained horse won the Leopardstown last Saturday.

Trainer Vincent O'Brien said Courts Appeal, owned by John McShain, of Philadelphia, will take his chance in the Newmarket race providing the going on the turf course is not too firm.

Rockey Royale is the betting favorite at 8 to 1, with Faultless Speech and Macquario bracketed at 9 to 1.

But laying a bet right now on the mile-and-a-furlong event is risky business. Eighty-six horses still are entered in the race.

Thursday Deadline For Hoop Entries

Teams and players planning entry in the S-anich Suburban Basketball League for the coming season and not yet registered have just one day left to get their names in to the league secretary, Mrs. M. Butler, at Sooke.

President Ernie Stock said today that entries would close Thursday night in preparation for the league's opening triple-header at Sooke Community Hall, Thursday, October 29.

FALL SHOW UNDER WAY ON FRIDAY

The coveted best-in-show award is the goal show dogs from throughout the Pacific Northwest are primping for when the Victoria City Kennel Club stages its annual fall championships this weekend.

The two-day show, which starts with judging at 10 a.m. Friday and ends Saturday evening, will be held in the Crystal Garden's lower ballroom.

Judges for the event are Col. E. E. Ferguson, of Hollywood, and Victoria's R. A. Cross.

CHANCE TO PULL OUT

About two-thirds of them probably will be scratched before the 117th running of the race. The field will be cut Thursday at the first official acceptance stage. Then owners will get another chance to pull out Monday.

About 35 horses are likely to start in the Cambridgehire, which carries the last Irish Hospitals Sweepstakes of the season.

Betting on other horses included: Fireguard, Guersillus and Marshal Pil. 23 to 1; Antheion. 28 to 1; Admiral's Lark, Chino, Clarendon, Pete, Dairialatan, Kingroy, King's Cou, Orthology, Panche Calvan, Polar Way, Reprimand and Small Slaw. 33 to 1; Calceolaria. 40 to 1.

Those were the only odds quoted at the official betting callover.

LONDON—Dovey Moore, 125, Spring field, Ohio, dropped Bobby Reid, 125, England, 1, Non-Fill 7. Boston, 200, Lee Williams, 200, Boston, 200, out Billy Tudale, 158, Bridgeport, Conn.

MCKEESPORT, Pa.—Frankie Daniels, 190, Bakersfield, Calif., outpouted Bob Baker, 218, Pittsburgh, 30.

Watson Sticks to Vow But Worsley Gets Word

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

New York Rangers, occupying the National Hockey League cellar with only one win in six games, have issued an ultimatum to goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley.

Produce or else. It is no secret the Rangers are disappointed with Worsley's work. The former Calder trophy winner as the NHL's top rookie in 1952-53 has allowed 27 goals in six games.

Worsley, often criticized by coach Phil Watson for mediocre performances, will be in the nets tonight as the Rangers entertain Toronto Maple Leafs in the only game scheduled.

How long Worsley stays in goal will probably depend on how the Rangers make out in the next few games.

CONSIDER PAILLE

Ranger general manager Muzz Patrick and Watson huddled for some time Tuesday about whether to stick with Worsley or bring up Marcel Paille from Springfield.

The decision was that Worsley shouldn't have to take all the blame for the club's poor start, so he stays. The Rangers brought Paille up for one game last year but he allowed four goals and was promptly sent back down again.

Paille has allowed 14 goals in four games for Springfield this year after being beaten out for the Ranger job by Worsley in training camp.

LIKE A GIANT

Worsley played like a giant in Montreal Saturday night, making 36 saves as the Rangers won 4-2. The next night in New York, his mates gave him a 5-3 lead going into the third period but he couldn't hold it as Montreal won 5-6.

Watson, often abusive in the past, seems to have taken the club's current slump mildly.

He said after Sunday's loss: "I'm not going to talk about Worsley. I made a vow I'm not going to attack my players and I'm going to keep it if it kills me."

MONTREAL (CP) — Postmaster-General William Hamilton used a microphone and a prepared speech today to criticize speakers who use a microphone and read from a prepared text.

With his prepared text in hand, released to the press in advance of delivery, Mr. Hamilton boomed over a public address system his views on the subject of speaking. He spoke at a Kiwanis Club luncheon here.

He said the microphone and the prepared speech are responsible for some of the decline in the quality of public speaking in Canada.

Sometimes, he added, a microphone is necessary.

But for generations before its advent there were truly great speakers who could hold audiences of thousands enthralled and reach the furthestmost boundaries of great groups even outdoors through the power of their voice alone.

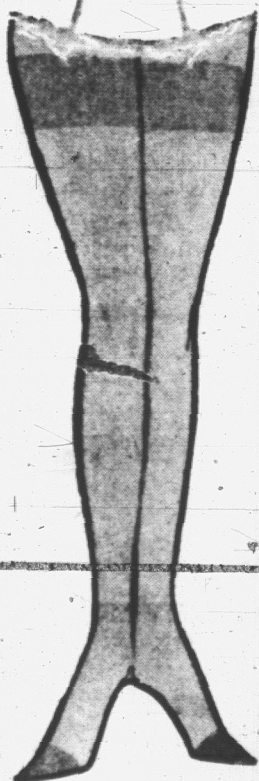

"Today we are destroying that old intimate contact between speaker and audience and eliminating the curiously moving quality of the human voice, directly heard."

NEGLIGENCE TRIAL OPENS THURSDAY

'Death Talcum' Killed 69 Babies in France

BORDEAUX, France (UPI) — A trial goes on Thursday for a doctor charged today that 69 babies have died over the negligence in the 69 deaths and pain and their bodies looked as if they had been dipped in boiling oil, police charged. The first deaths were said to have occurred three years ago. Mothers, watching their children writhe in pain, often sprinkled on still more of the death-dealing powder, hoping to soothe the irritation. In some cases they simply sealed the fate of their own children. Cazenave was not charged with purposely putting arsenic in the powder. The official reports on the case said it was most likely an accident that from Nov. 21 to Dec. 19, 1951, arsenic was mixed in large batches of the powder instead of zinc oxide. He is charged with negligence in not detecting the mistake.

Anti-Labor Laws Seen for Ontario

PEMBROKE, Ont. (UPI)—Ontario CCF Leader Donald C. Macdonald claimed Tuesday night the Ontario government will introduce a bill to restrict the activities of trade unions.

Macdonald told a public meeting that legislation similar to that passed earlier this year in Newfoundland and British Columbia "is imminent here in Ontario."

Purpose of the proposed legislation arising out of the recommendations of the legislature's select committee of labor, he said, "will be to be-devil the day-to-day operations of the million and a quarter workers now in unions and to halt the organization of the nearly two million more who have yet to be organized."

NO LONGER UNDERDOGS

TORONTO (CP)—The new role of labor unions demands that they be responsible, E. L. Harrison of Vancouver said today in an address to the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

SEN. JAMES GLADSTONE

SPOKESMEN NEEDED

More Indian MPs Urged By Senator

FORT QU'APPELLE, Sask. (CP)—Indians should have fuller representation in the House of Commons, Senator James Gladstone told the second annual provincial conference of Indian chiefs and councillors here Tuesday.

Senator Gladstone, 72, was the first Indian to be appointed to the Upper House.

The greatest enemy of the Indian, he told the conference, is fear of how the treaties might be affected if he is given the right to vote.

In Saskatchewan, he said, Indians may not vote in federal or provincial elections.

The proportion of Indians with the ability to speak for their race is equally as large as in the case of the white man, and he would like to see more Indians in Parliament.

Jean Lagasse, director of social and economic research among Manitoba Indians, told of the consideration given to Indian problems by politicians seeking votes in Manitoba.

Indians should do more fighting for their rights as Canadians rather than for their rights as Indians, he said.

The Swedish merchant navy in June, 1959, consisted of 1,556 vessels aggregating 3,547,741 gross tons.

If unions did not take on this role voluntarily the public through government would act.

Mr. Harrison, vice-president of British Columbia Packers Ltd., said that formerly unions were regarded by the public as "underdogs" but the role now had changed.

British Columbia's Trade Unions Act did not come about because of the demands of employers, Mr. Harrison said, but because the government knew the public was frustrated by the irresponsible tactics of some unions.

NEW RESPONSIBILITY

"The new legislation has not brought industrial peace in B.C., nor has it been the cause of the province's unsettled labor-management relations, but it does lay new requirements of responsibility on unions."

However, something more needed to be done and Chambers of Commerce and Boards of Trade in B.C. had made several suggestions.

Replacement of conciliation boards with a mediator, who would strive to bring about a settlement on the basis of fact rather than on the principle of compromise, would be a progressive step.

Beyond such measures, Mr. Harrison said, perhaps the only field was the rather intangible area of understanding.

"It appears to me that there must be an understanding that there is a common goal. And because achievement of the common goal of a high standard of living embodying full employment, a stable dollar, such social services as we can afford, and civil liberties is for the good of all Canadians, it must be the prime objective of both management and labor."

POPE RECEIVES REPORT FROM VICTORIA BISHOP

Pope John XXIII today received Most Rev. James M. Hill, DD, Bishop of Victoria. The bishop left Victoria for Rome and the Vatican Oct. 4 on his "ad limina" visit. This title, indirectly translated from the Latin means "to make a report."

Every bishop makes the journey once every five years to report to the Pope on the condition of his diocese. The Roman Catholic Church divides the world into five portions. This year it is the turn of North American churches to go.

At the present time there are over 70 Canadian and United States bishops in Vatican City awaiting appointments with the leader of the church.

MONTE ROBERTS

Department of higher explanation. Conversation between daddy and very young son.

Daddy: You'll have to wait until tomorrow.

Son: What's tomorrow, Daddy?

Daddy: Well, er, tomorrow is the day after today.

Son: What's today, Daddy?

Daddy: Today is right now.

Son: Then when does it get to be tomorrow?

Daddy: After you go to bed, and go to sleep then when you wake up, it's tomorrow.

Son: Oh. You mean, when Mummy puts me to bed for my nap, when I wake up for supper, it will be tomorrow?

Daddy: No—not, er, exactly. Now, let's get this straight. Right now is today, you understand that?

Son: Yes.

Daddy: Good. Now, if right now is today, then the next day is tomorrow and today becomes yesterday.

Son: Uh?

Daddy: You're not paying attention. When you go to bed tonight, and then you wake up the day after tonight, it's tomorrow.

Son: Oh.

Daddy: Look at it this way. When you go to bed tonight, you're going to sleep today.

Son: When I go to sleep tonight, it's today?

Daddy: That's right, son. So you go to sleep and wake up in the morning. When you get up, tomorrow is the next day, and not only that, but tomorrow today will be yesterday.

Son: Ummm. Daddy?

Daddy: Yes, son.

Son: What happens to the yesterday we had today when today is tomorrow. Huh, Daddy?

Daddy: Well, son, that's another question. And we mustn't try to learn too much, all in one day, must we?

Son: Daddy, in which one day? Today today, or today tomorrow or today yesterday?

Daddy: Mother, this young man hasn't had his nap today.

Son: Why can't I have my nap tomorrow because you said tomorrow would be today tomorrow and today is yesterday and I can't have my nap today yesterday . . .

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Rain, heavy cloud, and brisk winds were forecast today by weatherman William Mackie for tonight and Thursday.

"We are in a series of weather disturbances coming from the Pacific," he said. "One went through just before noon today, but there is another right behind it that will give us rain overnight and Thursday morning."

Winds will be southeasterly at 20 miles tonight, and southwesterly at 25 miles Thursday. Temperatures will range between 48 and 57 degrees.

Guest speaker at a Victoria Kinsmen Club meeting Thursday at 6:30 p.m. in the Pacific Club will be Lt. Cmdr. David McKenzie, of HMCS Venture, who will discuss the B.C. All-Star Rugby tour of Japan.

It's a long jump from Victoria to New York but a city chartered life underwriter has made it in three years. John A. Lanigan, in charge of the New York Life Insurance Company's Victoria sales office since 1956, has been appointed a management assistant at the company's home office.

He will complete a six-month management training program and then be posted to one of the firm's branches in North America.

General meeting of the Cloverdale PTA will be held in the school on Monday at 8 p.m.

Mrs. E. Mills from the Canadian Consumers' Association will give a speech and answer questions.

Radio controls are being installed on traffic signals at several intersections on Cook and Bay Streets to open traffic lanes for speeding fire trucks.

City lighting superintendent Ken Reid said the radio controls would go into operation next month.

The controls will stop traffic at each of the intersections when activated by a radio beam transmitted from equipment on the fire engines. This will enable each fire vehicle driver to control the traffic signals himself as he approaches an intersection.

Royal Oak Elementary School fall fair will be held at the school Friday, commencing at 7 p.m.

Games, contests, bingo and refreshments will be featured.

Progressing well and considered to be in "satisfactory" condition at St. Joseph's Hospital, YMCA physical director Archie McKinnon is still barred from visitors.

An emergency operation to remove his spleen, ruptured when ribs were broken in a fall at Crystal Garden pool a week ago, was conducted early Tuesday and he is now taking post-operative treatment.

City Hall's 18-member Quarter Century Club held its second annual meeting Tuesday night in the Holyrood House, reviving memories of the past as Cecil Clark gave a slide-illustrated lecture on "Victoria, Then and Now." The group is headed by city clerk Frank Hunter, who has 41 years of service with the city. Average length of civic service of the members is 31 years.

A sixth light was lit on the big Red Feather chart at Yates and Douglas this morning signifying that Victoria's Community Chest campaign had passed the $150,000 mark.

This afternoon total returns had exceeded $152,500, leaving $172,500 to be raised for the total campaign objective of $325,000.

TCA Throws Weight Into Airport Push

Double pressure is going to be put on Ottawa for longer runways and a new terminal building at Patricia Bay airport.

Trans-Canada Air Lines today threw its support behind Victoria Chamber of Commerce in a joint bid to have improved facilities.

A TCA spokesman said in Vancouver the carrier has been recommending for the last three years longer runways at Patricia Bay and "we'll continue to do so."

He said a new terminal building has also been among improvements sought by TCA in annual recommendations to the Department of Transport.

AT TCA EXPENSE

The spokesman said TCA enlarged waiting room facilities at Pat Bay last year "at our own expense."

But he warned the growing traffic pattern could result in the building being inadequate. In Victoria, Chamber of Commerce president W. A. Pendray promised his group will take all-out action for better facilities despite the "stall" by Defence Minister Peck.

Mr. Peck said facility improvements will be delayed because of lack of funds. The work will be done on a priority basis with work needed elsewhere, said the minister.

Mr. Pendray said the chamber is gathering "all the facts and we'll go after this with all we've got in a week or 10 days."

One Course by Mail Urged for Students In High Schools

All high school students could improve their study habits if they took at least one course by correspondence; provincial high school correspondence director Dr. Edith Lucas said today.

She addressed the B.C. school trustees convention in the Empress Hotel as it headed towards its final session of the three-day meeting.

Earlier, the convention passed a controversial resolution in amended form requesting legislative changes to allow school boards to fire incompetent teachers. Included in the resolution were several safeguards to prevent abuse of arbitrary powers.

But another major resolution went down to defeat when trustees rejected a proposal that legislation be sought to allow centralized negotiation of basic teachers' salaries across the province. This would have ended present individual negotiations between school boards and their own teaching staffs.

Dr. Lucas, reciting the rapid growth of correspondence instruction in the province, said it was "the great equalizer" of educational opportunity by giving students at small schools as many subjects to choose from as those provided in classrooms at large schools.

She said that the individual approach in correspondence instruction has improved discipline and study habits because all questions must be answered by students and all are checked by instructors.

"The tendency today in the classroom is to expect the teacher to do all the work. But the correspondence student quickly learns to stand on his own feet," she said.

At the end of a classroom instructional period, neither the teacher nor the individual pupil can be certain of how well the lesson has been mastered.

But at the end of each correspondence lesson, both know exactly how much has been absorbed because there is an automatic and accurate check.

Victoria Tug Rides Out Second Blow

The Victoria deep-sea towboat Sudbury II, with two 10,000-ton merchant ships in tow, has weathered its second typhoon within a week off the coast of Japan.

Tuesday she was hove to close to the middle of typhoon "Dinah," which was churning up winds of 140 knots in the "eye."

Today Capt. Harley Blagborne, master of the tug, messaged the owners, Island Tug and Barge Ltd.: "Have ridden out two typhoons. Weather is moderating."

Typhoon Dinah followed close on the heels of typhoon Charlotte, and Sudbury II was still hove to, waiting out Charlotte, when Dinah arrived about 250 miles from the coast of Japan, where the tug is bound with two Liberty ships headed for the shipbreakers.

The towboat was driven about 150 miles south of her projected course while hove to.

She is now making about six knots, and is two days from sheltered waters, three days from Japan if the weather holds.

Chief May Ask Horse Riding Regulation

A proposal that unsaddled riding horses be prohibited from public highways will be considered by Saanich Police Chief W. A. Pearson.

He commented today on the riding mishap Saturday in which 14-year-old Carole Cookson, 2901 Colquitz, received serious concussion and is in "satisfactory" condition at St. Joseph's Hospital. She had been described as critical to fair and was semi-conscious.

The girl was thrown or fell from her bareback horse on Wilkinson near West Saanich Road as she rode with a companion on another horse.

Chief Pearson said he would consider making the proposal for inclusion in the Motor Vehicles Act, based on the reasoning that a rider in difficulty has a much better chance of staying on his horse if he has a saddle to grasp.

Police believe a car traveling at a fast pace passed the young rider at about the time of the accident and could have caused the horse to shy.

The chief said he would ponder another recommendation of a similar nature, the banning of side-saddle motorcycle passengers.

"You see these girls riding that way all the time. Any sudden movement of the motorcycle and they're gone," he said.

Sports Car Kills City Pensioner

'Standing in Middle Of My Lane'—Driver

A 73-year-old Victoria pensioner, a veteran outdoorsman of the Northwest Territories, was killed by a two-seater sports car as he stood on Patricia Bay Highway near Keating Cross Roads about 7.30 p.m. Tuesday.

Don Carlos Blackburn, a native of Springtown, Tex., who became a naturalized Canadian in 1927, was believed to have died instantly from head and other injuries.

Central Saanich police said driver of the southbound, hard-topped sports model was Gordon Charles Hammill, 8337 Patricia Bay Highway.

The fatality took place about two miles south of the spot where a 75-year-old motorist received fatal injuries in a two-car crash Oct. 8 and brought to 10 the total number of traffic deaths in Greater Victoria this year.

Arrangements for an inquest were still being made through deputy coroner Dr. J. H. Moore and Central Saanich police at noon today.

Police had difficulty in tracing next of kin and were to try contacting a son, Ford Blackburn, last known to have lived in Calgary.

Part-Time Laborer on Berry Farm

The deceased had been employed as a part-time laborer on the berry farm of R. H. Meldram, 2833 Telegraph Road, for about four months and had lived "on and off" for at least 10 years at the Salvation Army men's hostel, 629 Johnson.

About an hour before the accident, Meldram had driven his hired man from the farm to a bus stop at the highway and Telegraph Road, as usual after work.

Meldram said the man often began walking along the highway in hopes of getting a ride to town from a passing motorist instead of waiting for the bus.

On this occasion, Meldram thought, Blackburn may have been caught between bus stops and the bus did not stop for him.

Chief Fred Brownlee of Central Saanich police said: "I don't know what he could have been doing for an hour after he was dropped off until the accident. But according to what we have found out, the man was declining and may just have wandered off."

The chief said Blackburn apparently was standing still in the centre of the south lane, facing the centre line of the highway, just before the impact.

Hammill said: "There was a car coming the other way. When he passed I regained my vision and he was standing right smack in the middle of my lane, not 20 feet away."

For many years, Meldram said, the deceased was a Hudson's Bay Co. man in the Northwest Territories.

An acquaintance, Mack W. Lyle, Box 955, Victoria, said he often talked with Blackburn in a downtown cafe where they both went often.

He said Blackburn was "a typical old-timer, the type you'd put in a movie. History, in my estimation, followed him. He had a regular mail ride by dog team and blazed trails long before airplanes were thought of."

"He was a fine old gentleman you could trust."

A Salvation Army employee said Blackburn never discussed himself with anyone at the hostel.

"There are men who have been here 20, 35 years, who don't know when he came to stay here," he said.

SAFE RESISTS SUNDAY PUNCH BY BURGLARS

"Ice cream" burglars who struck overnight Monday at Island Farms Dairies Co-operative Association, 2229 Blanshard, banged away on a safe unsuccessfully, then helped themselves to ice cream before leaving the building.

At the rear, after ransacking the offices and leaving hammer marks on the safe dial, the thieves used chocolate ice cream to scrawl an impolite, poorly-spelled opinion of the proprietors.

Dirty Shoes a Problem? Get Spray-On Shoe Polish

By PENNY SAVER

If you have youngsters that love to spend hours persuading a bright shine to appear on their scuffed shoes—this isn't for you! But to children who have to be continuously reminded to keep their shoes polished, the gimmick I saw this week will prove both intriguing and helpful.

Coming in a bottle, complete with its own spray, this shoe shine will produce an instant gloss as soon as it is applied. It can be used for both black and brown shoes and costs 98 cents. No excuse for drab shoes when shoe spray is in the house.

Bridge parties come into their own at this time of year. An extra card table takes very little space and is always useful. Sturdy ones now selling at $3.79 have red or green waterproof plastic tops.

Social gatherings of all kinds make fall and winter fun to enjoy. Your husband will love to handle one of the Italian ice buckets I saw this week. Looking far more expensive than its price of $3.98, it's made of hammered aluminum. Buckets are practical as well as pretty, being completely insulated at base and sides.

Relatives in England and other countries will appreciate a calendar at Christmas time, especially if it has an attractive view of beautiful Victoria.

The ones I saw are perfect for Christmas mailing. One striking view is that of the Parliament Buildings, illuminated at night. All views are in color. For 29 cents you buy a calendar and mailing envelope.

For information on these items phone Penny at EV-23131.

OYSTER SOUFFLE

1 pint shucked oysters, ¼ cup butter, ¼ cup flour, ½ cup milk, ½ teaspoon salt, few grains pepper, few grains cayenne, 2 or 3 drops tabasco sauce, 3 eggs, separated, ¼ cup cracker crumbs.

Examine oysters for any bits of shell. Cook in their liquid until the edges begin to ruffle. Drain well, save the liquid, and dice the oysters. Melt butter, gradually blending in the flour, milk and ½ cup of oyster liquid. Cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Add seasonings and allow to cool. Stir in well-beaten egg yolks and add diced oysters. Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry and fold into mixture. Sprinkle cracker crumbs in the bottom of a greased 1½ quart casserole. Pour in soufflé mixture. Oven-poach in a moderate oven (350 degree F.) for 40 minutes, or until set. Serve at once. Makes 5 or 6 servings.

DEAR ABBY ...

Stand Up for Rights

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a refined, reliable grandmother who has been babysitting for some time. Parents tell me they are at ease when they leave their children in my care. But why are the young mothers so inconsiderate? When they leave, they never think to give you permission to make a cup of tea. I have sat until 4 a.m. without so much as a pretzel to nibble on.

We older women do not raid the refrigerator, nor do we touch anything without permission. Also, we stay awake. When I start at 5 p.m. I have to bring a sandwich from home for my supper. Other older sitters I have talked to say they've had the same experience. What is your opinion of this? OLDER SITTER

DEAR SITTER: "Sitters" who come to sit at 5 p.m. should certainly be offered a substantial dinner. If it isn't offered, the sitter is perfectly justified in asking for it. Ditto for the "permission" to make tea during the evening. In your case, the meek will inherit only hunger pangs. Speak up!

DEAR ABBY: I have a wonderful woman who has helped me with my laundry and housework for years. But the longer she helps me, the more she steals. She started with little things like a package of powder puffs from the dime store. But she graduated to nylon hose, a slip, a bottle of wine now and then and a place mat set. She has even taken some of my husband's socks and underwear.

I pay her well and have given her things for her children. It hurts me to know she steals from me, but no one else could be taking these things. Should I fire her and tell her why? Or should I let it go because I need her?

TROUBLED

DEAR TROUBLED: Don't let it go. Have a heart-to-heart talk with this woman. Give her a chance to return or pay for the articles she has stolen. If she denies taking them and you are certain she has replaced her. A clean house is nice, but the help shouldn't be allowed to take you to the cleaners.

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Do You Get a Thrill at the Changing of the Seasons?

Anyone who is so involved with problems that he or she has lost the habit of awareness in daily life, misses so much. What a thrill the changing seasons are if you watch them, smell them and have the "feel" of them.

This day was sent straight from the gods and should lift the cloud from any troubled heart—at least for a few moments. The air is—UMMM! It has just a hint of fall in it and the sun is sparkling. The flowers still are blooming but I fear the many buds I counted on the rose bushes this morning may not have the exciting experience of full maturity.

The hydrangeas are gorgeous, some of them 10 inches long, and they are just beginning to turn from white to delicate greens and pinks. Yes, there are definite, subtle signs everywhere that summer is almost gone as I write this.

I always hate to see a season or a period in life end because I love both so much, but there is always more beauty ahead. Soon the trees will be flaming with unbelievable colors and then will come the first frost, making a bed of diamonds out of the lawn. The first snowfall will follow and I anticipate it with the same awe and expectancy I had as a child. Then

HOW YOUR LIVER BILE HELPS BREAK DOWN FATS

IN THE DIGESTIVE TRACT

Laboratory tests have now proved that liver bile emulsifies fats... actually breaks them down. It is an established fact that when liver bile is added to fatty solids, the fats are broken down and form a smooth, easy-flowing mix.

In your digestive tract, liver bile helps break down fats the same way. Many of the foods you eat reach the digestive tract as undigested fatty solids. Your golden liver bile helps break down these fats... for easier and more complete digestion.

Remember, Carter's not only relieves irregularity, but actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fats in your digestive tract.

So when you feel sluggish, head-achy, nervous and need a laxative, take Carter's Little Liver Pills.

New Rumpus Hits Edmonton Civic Affairs

EDMONTON (CP) — City council, in its first session since the Oct. 14 civic election, was rocked Monday when newly-elected Ald. Edmund Leger suggested veteran Ald. Jonald Bowen resign.

Ald. Leger said Ald. Bowen's position on the city council was untenable... in view of the fact that he has transpired in the last few months.

properly. Ald. Leger first jumped into the public spotlight last year when he headed the drive for an investigation into civic affairs.

The investigation accused former mayor William Hawrelak of "gross misconduct" in land deals.

Ald. Leger Monday claimed Ald. Bowen had at one time made a motion giving benefit to Metropolitan Investments Limited without disclosing that a law partner of his (Bowen's) was a shareholder in trust in the company.

Metropolitan Investments was incorporated by Mr. Hawrelak with controlling shares held by his family.

Russian 'Shots' Beating Mumps, Flu

ATLANTIC CITY (AP) — Soviet scientists in forward medical strides have come up with new vaccines against flu, mumps and measles.

All are made from living but weakened viruses in hopes of creating long-lasting immunity.

These steps were described Tuesday by a prominent Soviet virus expert, Dr. A. A. Smorodintsev of the Institute of Experimental Medicine in Leningrad, in a speech prepared for the American Public Health Association.

The flu vaccine is sprayed into the nose.

As for polio, Russia became a huge testing ground for the living virus polio vaccine developed by Dr. Albert Sabin of the University of Cincinnati.

Russians are producing it to be swallowed in a syrupy liquid, or in candy.

Dr. Smorodintsev said the Sabin vaccine has appeared 80,000,000 or 100,000,000 Soviet children next year.

The measles vaccine, still experimental, has been tested on 1,000 youngsters.

WHAT MAKES BUICK DRIVE SO SMOOTHLY?

Invicta 2-Door Hardtop

Buick's Exclusive Turbine Drive is Jet-Smooth...

No Mechanical Gears Ever Shift!

In a day when so many cars are alike, we believe you should know how basically different and how basically better a Buick is built.

For instance, no car at Buick's price, nor any car at a higher price, offers you so smooth, so dependable, so trouble-free an automatic transmission as Buick's Turbine Drive.

In ordinary automatic transmissions, gears are shifted automatically. But the shift is there! You feel it shift or hear it shift. And with each shift, the engine must adjust to a change in load, the wheels must handle a change in traction. With today's Buick in "Drive"—the flow of power from toe to wheels is jet-smooth, faster than ever and uninterrupted. The only thing that shifts is the pitch of stator blades in a swift, powerful current of oil... high angle for superb performance in starting or passing... low angle for best economy at cruising speeds.

Turbine Drive Transmission is available in every Buick. If you choose the LeSabre—the lowest priced Buick—it is a modestly priced option. If your choice is Invicta—the high performance Buick—or Electra—the finest Buick of all... it is yours as standard equipment. But the only sure way to get this quality Buick feature is to buy a Buick. This is the year. This is Buick at its all-time best!

Nothing shifts but the pitch of the stator blades in a jet-smooth flow of oil. High angle for quick starts and passing. Low angle for economical cruising.

U.S. SWIPING OUR GLORY AGAIN

Instant Bread 'Stale'

By DAVE MCINTOSH
OTTAWA (CP) — Really, Uncle Sam, this is too much. For the second time in a month, the United States has laid claim to development of a product which originated with Canada's Defence Research Board.

First it was a new communications system employing ionized trails of meteors for transmission of radio messages at high speeds over long distances.

Now it's "instant" bread. A Washington dispatch 10 days ago said the U.S. National Research Council and army quartermaster corps have developed an "instant bread mix" designed to make fresh bread easily available to troops in the field. It said the time for making bread has been reduced by about three-fourths by this "new formula." On Nov. 3, 1954, the Defence Research Board made this announcement in Ottawa. "Food technologist Joseph H. Hules and baker Joseph Galbraith of the food research group of the Defence Research Medical Laboratories, Downsview, Ont., have created a prepared mix which, combined with water and baked in an oven, produces high quality bread in just under two hours, cutting about four hours from mother's age-old method."

Officials here said the Canadian development was passed to the U.S. through the ordinary channels for exchange of information useful to the military.

They said the U.S. product still is undergoing laboratory tests while the Canadian "instant bread" has been in use in remote RCAF establishments and in naval ships for a number of years.

The Canadian bread mix probably will replace the traditional hardtack altogether.

Civil Service Salary Rally Set for 8,000

VANCOUVER (CP) — More than 8,000 federal civil servants will be invited to attend a rally here within the next two weeks to further their battle for a pay increase from the federal government.

Plans for the rally, which will be held in Vancouver's new Queen Elizabeth Theatre, were drawn up at a meeting here Tuesday night of 129 delegates representing 18 government departments. The date was not decided.

The meeting decided federal civil servants on the British Columbia lower mainland will be assessed $1 each to finance the campaign.

WALKOUT REJECTED

A resolution sponsored by delegates from the Canadian Postal Employees Association calling for a day-long walkout in protest of the no-increase decision was defeated.

Several delegates thought such action would brand civil servants as "irresponsible."

A meeting of the Vancouver and District Labor Council (CLC) Tuesday night saw delegates give unanimous support to a resolution that "the recommendations of the civil service commission for pay increases be made effective immediately."

Alan Hutchins, a past president of the Canadian Postal Employees' Association, told the meeting that if civil servants don't get an increase they will be driven to "a steadily decreasing standard of living, frustration, helplessness and despair."

'WHITE ROSE' FIGHTS CASTRO

NEW YORK (AP) — A former brother-in-law of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro named himself Tuesday night as secretary-general of a movement of thousands of guerrillas he said are fighting the Castro regime in Cuba.

Dr. Rafael Diaz Balart, 33, declared his so-called "White Rose" movement is allied with no other group but "respects everyone who works against Castro."

cruiting from a headquarters in the Bronx.

Dr. Balart's sister Mirta was married to Castro in 1948 and is the mother of Castro's son, Fidel Jr. She divorced Castro in 1955.

Trustee To Push 'Berg Plan' For City's Gifted Students

Greater Victoria School Board will investigate feasibility of introducing a special after-school academic program for gifted high school children.

Trustee R. H. Reeve said he will canvass other board members today for authority to obtain more information on the program sponsored by the Joe Berg Foundation for the Advancement of Science.

The program was launched in Vancouver Monday as the first such venture in Canada, operating in 300 communities with some 6,000 gifted children participating.

The program was described to 200 school trustees at the P.C. School Trustees conven-

Only $1 a Year

It involves school board hiring of working scientists and mathematicians at $1 a year to teach specially-screened children in non-credit courses.

"They do it for the satisfaction of communicating with their intellectual peers," he told the trustees. "And also to society something they have a lot of knowledge."

He said such programs may cost school boards as little as $30 a year for "thousands of dollars worth of time of professionals in assistance to the most handicapped people of our system—gifted children."

The evening teachers would be drawn from the ranks of industry, business, education and retired persons of a community.

"We will accept help wherever we find it," he said.

37 Instructors

The 26 children involved in the Vancouver project have 37 special instructors available.

Giving examples of the benefits of the program in stimulating intellectual activity among gifted children, he cited a paper published by a medical society on successful experiments in stopping growth of small organisms at predetermined points.

The paper was written by a 15-year-old boy. Subsequently he was given a liberal eight-year scholarship by a U.S. university to complete his education and pursue his experiment.

Mr. Shapiro drew interested questions from the audience after bluntly mocking many rigidly-held beliefs.

"The only alternative to dangerous ideas is no ideas. Is it conformity that we want? Yes. We want our children to be so 'well rounded' that essentially there is no point to them."

Teach Nothing

"I don't know what equal education is. I want equitable not equal education. And what is equitable for gifted boys and girls is not equitable for most boys and girls."

"We, the teachers, teach nothing. This is the folly of our business: we desperately try to teach something to someone and I don't believe it can be done."

"We can only stir their interest, fire their imagination. And then the youngsters go, in their own way, to learn the topic at hand."

"We in the United States, and you in Canada, cannot afford to waste these human resources."

Runaway American Has Girl in Moscow

MOSCOW (UPI)—Robert E. Webster, a former American from Cleveland, O., is dating a Moscow restaurant hostess who is believed to have influenced his decision to become a Russian, U.S. Embassy sources said today.

The girl's name has not been made public.

Webster, a 30-year-old plastics worker who came here to work at the American exhibition, turned his back on his wife, Martha, and two children in the United States when he applied for Soviet citizenship.

He said he made the switch for ideological reasons. "I've examined both systems and decided that I like it here."

His former employer, H. G. Rand, of the Rand Development Corporation of Cleveland, said he believes Webster was trying to get away from "domestic trouble back home."

One official said Webster might come to the embassy if he wanted to communicate with his family in the U.S., but other source said he has already stated that he does not want to get in touch with them.

Population Curbs 'Vital Necessity'

Falling death rates and soaring birth rates in Asia and Africa with resulting explosive rises in population constitute "a future threat to our very existence," Kiwanis Club members were told Tuesday.

Dr. Hugh Borsman, Victoria physician, attributed the situation to advancing medical techniques and generally improved conditions in the world's underprivileged countries.

He cited Puerto Rico as an example where the advent of sanitation and education had boosted the population to a point beyond the capacity of available arable land to support.

High death rates in India and China, he said, were offset by enormous birth rates. Although 45,000,000 die of disease in India each year the average population increase there is 3,000,000 annually and curable diseases will be virtually wiped out in the future.

In China, he said, a good public health program could result in a population increase of 20,000,000 a year.

Belgium, like some other European countries, continues to train future naval officers in sailing ships.

Steel Order Stalled

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A U.S. District Court judge today issued a Taft-Hartley injunction to halt the 99-day steel strike for 80 days. However, a stay of the injunction was granted by the U.S. Third Court of Appeals — meaning the strike continues.

The injunction was issued by Judge Herbert P. Sorg of the U.S. District Court in Pittsburgh. The United Steelworkers' Union immediately appealed.

Within an hour Judge Austin Staley of the U.S. Third Circuit Court stayed execution of the injunction until the three-judge circuit court can hear a United Steelworkers' appeal.

Staley said that the legal papers for the appeal must be filed by Thursday or the stay will be voided. However, if the appeal is filed the stay will be in effect until the court rules further.

Staley declared the circuit court would sit Thursday in Philadelphia to accept the union's appeal. The union counsel, Arthur Goldberg, earlier had indicated the USW was prepared to act immediately.

Staley said he felt sure that the circuit court judges would arrange to hold a hearing on the appeal quickly.

The government sought the injunction on orders from President Eisenhower. The president said the strike was endangering the economic health and safety of the U.S.

Harbor Funds Misspent In Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — City solicitor W. G. Angus said today that the three members of the Toronto harbor commission spent public funds illegally when they took their wives on $3,500 worth of convention and post-convention trips.

Mr. Angus, who was asked by city council for a report on the commission expenses, said money spent on club memberships, Canadian National Exhibition tickets, and a baseball dinner was a good investment in public relations.

But he said money spent on wives at conventions is "not sufficiently related to the advancement or objects" of the commission to warrant the expense.

It will be up to city council to decide what action should be taken.

'China Lacks Peace Wish'

CALCUTTA (UPI) — Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru charged today that Communist China did not share Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's current desire for peace and implied the reason lay in a desire for more territory.

"I have no doubt that Khrushchev wants peace," he told a news conference. "The same eagerness for peace is not present in China."

China, he said, was "still suffering from the first flood of revolution."

Jimmy Fraser

HE'S HERE FOR BALMY WINTER

Hoo-Ray for 'A-Hoo-La'

By HUMPHRY DAVY

If you have any doubts about a mild winter, dismiss them from your mind, keep your warm undergarments in mothballs, and leer like a Cheshire cat at your fuel dealer.

It's going to be fine; no cold spell. There will be plenty of rain, but March will be a dry month. Some snow flurries will fall but they won't amount to much.

You can rely on this if you are a follower of Jimmy Fraser, famous Songhee Indian sage, who predicts the weather by direct contact with the forces of nature.

Jimmy Chats With Birds, Animals

As Jimmy has often explained in the past, he predicts the weather by reading the signs of nature or chatting with birds, animals or fishes. There is nothing unusual and odd about this. Consider the hundreds of white people who talk to their pets — horses, dogs, cats and goldfish.

For his present weather forecast, Jimmy chatted with a sea lion, the one which was seen basking in the sun at Hollywood Crescent last Saturday.

"A-hoo-la says warm ocean one, is down here on a vacation."

A-hoo-la says warm ocean currents stay close to the island, meaning mild winter," said Jimmy. "A-hoo-la much pleased." He says, "its going to be a good salmon season. Fish don't like warm water and so will stay here."

And that wasn't all. The

The grey-haired 82-year-old Indian, who lives on the Craigflower Reserve, has been predicting the weather for years with a remarkable degree of success.

But he's not too popular with scientists. He embarrasses them by his unorthodox methods of predicting the weather.

sage also said a sea otter called "Small One" also paid him a visit earlier this week to discuss a serious shortage of clams on Victoria beaches. "Small One says mild winter," said Jimmy. "Small One knows. He's a good friend of the seal family who knows all about these things."

Of course, Jimmy said, something could happen to upset things. The north and south wind, he explained, sometimes wage giant battles for control of the skies. The outcome is often disastrous for mortals.

It must be explained for those who don't know Jimmy that the old Indian is a sort of nature worshipper. All things are real and alive for him. And all things are part of the one Great Spirit.

Jimmy, on rising every morning faces the rising sun and prays to the Great One.

B.C. Hospital Progress Endangered

VANCOUVER (CP) — The provincial government's hold-the-line policy on hospital costs may be restricting progress and improvement in hospital care, the B.C. Hospitals Association was told Tuesday.

Dr. E. N. Boettcher of Victoria, chairman of the association's administrator division said hospital costs are bound to increase by about 10 per cent a year despite the best efforts of administrators and hospital boards.

He was speaking to the association's 42nd convention following a plea by Health Minister Martin to "hold back the tide of swollen costs which threatens to engulf the whole program" of hospital insurance.

The institute said its action does not imply a lack of confidence in the case of the other two bodies for equitable salaries.

The government had repudiated the established procedure of salary determination on the basis of a recommendation by the civil service commission.

Meanwhile, Labor Minister Starr today promised the Civil Service Association of Canada to take steps aimed at meeting complaints about pay and working conditions for 27,000 federal "prevailing rate" employees.

The minister met national officers of the association to hear a brief on behalf of the prevailing rate workers, who are employed at going rates in the places where they work and are not permanent civil service members.

The 30,000-member association called for "extensive improvement" in pay and working conditions.

France Asks Delay In Summit Talks

TAKEOVER IN U.S.

Civilians Run Army in Space

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower has decided to place the Army's team of missile and space experts at the disposal of the civilian National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), it was reported today.

Defence department sources announced the decision after the president talked with top military and civilian advisers about the space program, which again has become the subject of open controversy.

The team is headed by Dr. Werner von Braun, German-born scientist who helped put the first U.S. earth satellite into orbit. He and other members of the army group have protested a new policy giving the air force control of this country's space projects.

NASA made a bid just over a year ago to take over the army ballistic missile agency, along with its 2,100 scientists and technicians.

Eisenhower huddled with his space advisers for 70 minutes today before leaving for Augusta. The White House said he planned to issue a statement on the talks at Augusta later in the day.

The Army missile group has been getting more and more involved with space projects which both the defence department and NASA considered to be more attuned to NASA's goals than those of the ground army.

The army resisted the takeover last year and its agency instead became a contractor for the civilian space agency.

LAST QUINT DIES

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Baby D, last survivor of the five girls born to the wife of an air force lieutenant Tuesday, died at 6:40 a.m. (4:40 a.m. PST) today.

The grieving father said he and his wife "are confident that all is for the best and God has a better place for them."

The parents, Lieut. and Mrs. Charles G. Hannan, were asleep when Baby D succumbed. Both had been in near-shock during the night after the deaths of the other four quints within 9½ hours of their birth.

"Oh, my God. They were just like baby dolls," half sobbed a technician in a blue uniform when the word spread rapidly through the hospital.

A Lackland Air Force Base spokesman said neither of the parents was physically able to be interviewed or have their pictures taken immediately.

FOURTH TO ARRIVE

Baby D was the fourth born. She weighed one pound, 13 ounces.

Mrs. Hannan, 27, turned to her crewcut husband, 29, shortly after the babies were born and said, "You wanted a girl. Now you have five." The Hannans are the parents of two small boys.

Making a desperate effort to save the last survivor was Capt. William D. Munroe. He worked almost constantly with the one child throughout the night.

Baby B, so designated to indicate order of birth, died at 6:40 p.m. Tuesday. Baby A died at 7:10 p.m. and Baby E died at 10:25 p.m. and Baby C at 11 p.m.

The world's only living quints are the Dilgentis of Buenos Aires, Argentina, who celebrated their 16th birthday last July 15. The Dionne quints of Canada survived for 20 years, until Emilie died at 20 in 1954.

RED SPY NET HUNTING BUTTERFLIES

The West Bengal government spokesman said the "butterfly collectors" were among several Chinese survey parties which have been operating in the Sikkim and Bhutan areas after crossing the border from Tibet.

MAJ. H. MATOS ... held as traitor

Castro Arrests Army Foe

HAVANA (AP) — Havana radio station VOZ said today Prime Minister Fidel Castro's forces have arrested Maj. Hubert Matos, his military commander in Camaguey Province.

Matos had taken refuge at his headquarters in Camaguey, the provincial capital, after two of Castro's other commanders accused him of treason against the Cuban revolution.

Castro himself flew from Havana to Camaguey for an assault on the headquarters. He paced up and down the main street there while radio stations appealed to workers and farmers to join him in the assault.

The broadcast reports said the Cuban army chief, Maj. Camilo Cienfuegos, took Matos into custody and accused him of planning a coup d'etat.

Maos, who had been one of Castro's most respected field commanders, had resigned as provincial military commander in protest, apparently, against the appointment of Castro's 29-year-old brother, Raul, as the new minister of the Cuban armed forces. The appointment abolished the defence ministry and gave the young man complete control over all the armed forces.

JOIN IN PROTEST

A number of Matos' staff members joined him in the protest. The group took refuge in the military headquarters of the Camaguey province.

Castro flew here with his army chief, Camilo Cienfuegos, from Havana. Soon after radio stations began broadcasting appeals for popular support in the assault on the headquarters.

Matos and several of his supporters were inside the military headquarters but Camaguey friends of the provincial commander said he was unarmed and had not carried a weapon since sending his resignation to Castro two days ago.

They predicted that any assault against the military headquarters would not be opposed by those inside.

"Leave your fields, mount your horses, and ride into Camaguey to support the revolution of Fidel Castro," was the repeated appeal to farmers and machine-carrying peasants.

De Gaulle Wants Mr. K In Paris

(From Times News Services)

WASHINGTON — French President Charles de Gaulle balked today on going along with the Western Allies on the timing of a summit meeting.

While President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan are urging the summit meeting be held in December, the French government issued a cabinet announcement today declaring the "best chance" for the East-West conclave would be next spring.

The communiqué said France would welcome a top-level conference but felt it must be carefully prepared first by the Western heads of government.

This ran counter to the reported wishes of Eisenhower and Macmillan. They have been urging a prompt meeting with de Gaulle to prepare for talks with Russia in December or January.

INVITATION PLANNED

It was learned de Gaulle plans to invite Soviet Premier Khrushchev to Paris for talks some time before Christmas. Soviet Ambassador Sergei Vinogradov called on Premier Michel Debre and discussed summit conference matters.

The communiqué said: "The French government readily welcomes in principle the project of a so-called summit conference which has been the object of talks between leaders and diplomatic exchanges of view."

EASE TENSION

"On the other hand, the French government holds that it is first necessary that the effective easing of tension which one would like to hope for should develop."

In a statement accompanying the communiqué, a government spokesman said:

"The French government believes that a conference of chiefs of state must be carefully prepared by the western powers, and, notably, preceded by meetings held between them in an unhurried fashion."

Ike and Herter Discuss Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower met with State Secretary Christian Herter today, apparently to consider France's go-slow approach to the summit.

In a 40-minute conference at the White House the two were believed to have talked over ways to settle the backstage dispute on the timing of a meeting with Premier Khrushchev.

All the White House said of the meeting was that President Eisenhower favors a Western summit conference and is willing to attend one at any time.

Before Spring Britain's Target

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain today plumped for an East-West summit conference before next spring.

A foreign office spokesman said Britain always has felt the top-level talks should take place "rather earlier" than next spring.

WHAT A PICCADILLY CIRCUS KICKED UP BY NARKY NAG

By STEWART MACLEOD

LONDON (CP) — For one hour Tuesday traffic around Piccadilly Circus—hottest at the best of times—was reduced to chaos.

In the middle of it, grimly bracing his feet, was an old grey horse.

Behind him, pushing with all their might, were six hefty policemen.

Behind them, honking like mad, were dozens of frustrated motorists.

The horse—Billy by name—wasn't impressed. He had hauled a loaded cart for three miles and he wasn't moving it another inch.

"Cor, blimey," rasped Billy's Cockney owner, Arthur Loft's. He then directed a few well-chosen phrases at his untrusty steed. All he got back was a look of disdain.

"Send for a vet," shouted the head doorman of the Piccadilly Hotel. The horse was directly in front of the hotel's main entrance, a spot reserved for limousines of guests.

The vet came on the double and gave. Billy a complete medical.

"He's just plain lazy," he said.

The situation called for psychology. Loft's unhitched the animal, led him into a quiet alley, patted him warmly and gave him a gigantic supper of apples, his favorite food.

He was hitched again. He still refused to move.

"It's enough to drive you crackers," moaned Loft's. "Billy is a good horse—it's just that he won't move."

A van driver offered to take over Loft's cargo.

POPE RECEIVES REPORT FROM VICTORIA BISHOP

Pope John XXIII today received Most Rev. James M. Hill, DD, Bishop of Victoria.

The bishop left Victoria for Rome and the Vatican Oct. 4 on his "ad limina" visit. This title, indirectly translated from the Latin means "to make a report."

Every bishop makes the journey once every five years to report to the Pope on the condition of his diocese. The Roman Catholic Church divides the world into five portions. This year it is the turn of North American churches to go.

At the present time there are over 70 Canadian and United States bishops in Vatican City awaiting appointments with the leader of the church.

Department of higher explanation. Conversation between daddy and very young son.

Daddy: You'll have to wait until tomorrow.

Son: What's tomorrow, Daddy?

Son: What's today, Daddy?

Daddy: Today is right now.

Son: Then when does it get to be tomorrow?

Daddy: After you go to bed, and you go to sleep then when you wake up, it's tomorrow.

Son: Oh. You mean, when Mummy puts me to bed for my nap, when I wake up for supper, it will be tomorrow?

Daddy: No—not, er, exactly. Now, let's get this straight. Right now is today, you understand that?

Son: Yes.

Daddy: Good. Now, if right now is today, then the next day is tomorrow and today becomes yesterday.

Son: Uh?

Daddy: You're not paying attention. When you go to bed tonight, and then you wake up the day after tomorrow, it's tomorrow.

Son: Oh.

Daddy: Look at it this way. When you go to bed tonight, you're going to sleep today.

Son: When I go to sleep tonight, it's today?

Daddy: That's right, son. So you go to sleep and wake up in the morning. When you get up, tomorrow is the next day, and not only that, but tomorrow today will be yesterday.

Son: Ummm, Daddy?

Daddy: Yes, son.

Son: What happens to the yesterday we had today when today is tomorrow, huh, Daddy?

Daddy: Well, son, that's another question. And we mustn't try to learn too much, all in one day, must we?

Son: Daddy, in which one day? Today today, or today tomorrow or today yesterday?

Daddy: Mother, this young man hasn't had his nap today.

Son: Why can't I have my nap tomorrow because you said tomorrow would be today tomorrow and today is yesterday and I can't have my nap today yesterday.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Rain, heavy cloud, and brisk winds were forecast today by weatherman William Mackie for tonight and Thursday.

"We are in a series of weather disturbances coming from the Pacific," he said. "One went through just before noon today, but there is another right behind it that will give us rain overnight and Thursday morning."

Winds will be southeasterly at 20 miles tonight, and southwesterly at 25 miles Thursday. Temperatures will range between 48 and 57 degrees.

Guest speaker at a Victoria Kinsmen Club meeting Thursday at 6.30 p.m. in the Pacific Club will be Lt. Cmdr. David McKenzie, of HMCS Venture, who will discuss the B.C. All-Star Rugby tour of Japan.

A long jump from Victoria to New York but a city charter life underwriter has made it in three years. John A. Lanigan, in charge of the New York Life Insurance Company's Victoria sales office since 1956, has been appointed a management assistant at the company's home office.

He will complete a six-month management training program and then be posted to one of the firm's branches in North America.

General meeting of the Cloverdale PTA will be held in the school on Monday at 8 p.m. Mrs. E. Mills from the Canadian Consumers' Association will give a speech and answer questions.

Radio controls are being installed on traffic signals at several intersections on Cook and Bay Streets to open traffic lanes for speeding fire trucks. City lighting superintendent Ken Reid said the radio controls would go into operation next month.

The controls will stop traffic at each of the intersections when activated by a radio beam transmitted from equipment on the fire engines. This will enable each fire vehicle driver to control the traffic signals himself as he approaches an intersection.

Royal Oak Elementary School fall fair will be held at the school Friday, commencing at 7 p.m.

Games, contests, bingo and refreshments will be featured.

Progressing well and considered to be in "satisfactory" condition at St. Joseph's Hospital, YMCA physical director Archie McKinnon is still barred from visitors.

An emergency operation to remove his spleen, ruptured when ribs were broken in a fall at Crystal Garden pool a week ago, was conducted early Tuesday and he is now taking post-operative treatment.

City Hall's 18-member Quarter Century Club held its second annual meeting Tuesday night in the Holyrood House, reviving memories of the past as Cecil Clark gave a slide-illustrated lecture on "Victoria, Then and Now." The group is headed by city clerk Frank Hunter, who has 41 years of service with the city. Average length of civic service of the members is 31 years.

A sixth light was lit on the big Red Feather chart at Yates and Douglas this morning signifying that Victoria's Community Chest campaign had passed the $150,000 mark. This campaign total returns had exceeded $132,500, leaving $172,500 to be raised for the total campaign objective of $325,000.

TCA Throws Weight Into Airport Push

Double pressure is going to be put on Ottawa for longer runways and a new terminal building at Patricia Bay airport.

Trans-Canada Air Lines today threw its support behind Victoria Chamber of Commerce in a joint bid to have improved facilities.

A TCA spokesman said in Vancouver the carrier has been recommending for the last three years longer runways at Patricia Bay and "we'll continue to do so."

He said a new terminal building has also been among improvements sought by TCA in annual recommendations to the Department of Transport.

AT TCA EXPENSE

The spokesman said TCA enlarged waiting room facilities at Pat Bay last year "at our own expense."

But he warned the growing traffic pattern could result in the building being inadequate. In Victoria, Chamber of Commerce president W. A. Penderay promised his group will take all-out action for better facilities despite the "stall" by Defence Minister Pearkes.

Mr. Pearkes said facility improvements will be delayed because of lack of funds. The work will be done on a priority basis with work needed elsewhere, said the minister.

Mr. Penderay said the chamber is gathering "all the facts and we'll go after this with all we've got in a week or 10 days."

City Man Launches Better Water Drive

BY HUMPHRY DAVY

A Victoria insurance man has started a one-man campaign for purer city drinking water.

Askel O. Underbakke, 4588 Balmcarra, claims city water is muddy, tasteless and lifeless.

A man of quiet and kindly disposition, the Victorian said he was roused to action after sampling water that runs down the Island's west coast mountain slopes.

To prove his point he submitted to the Times a sample of water taken from a mountain stream on the road to Tofino for comparison with

One Course by Mail Urged for Students In High Schools

All high school students could improve their study habits if they took at least one course by correspondence, provincial high school correspondence director Dr. Edith Lucas said today.

She addressed the B.C. school trustees convention in the Empress Hotel as it headed towards its final session of the three-day meeting.

Earlier, the convention passed a controversial resolution in amended form requesting legislative changes to allow school boards to fire incompetent teachers. Included in the resolution were several safeguards to prevent abuse of arbitrary powers.

But another major resolution went down to defeat when trustees rejected a proposal that legislation be sought to allow centralized negotiation of basic teachers' salaries across the province. This would have ended present individual negotiations between school boards and their own teaching staffs.

Dr. Lucas, reciting the rapid growth of correspondence instruction in the province, said it was "the great equalizer" of educational opportunity by giving students at small schools as many subjects to choose from as those provided in classrooms at large schools.

She said that the individual approach in correspondence instruction has improved discipline and study habits because all questions must be answered by students and all are checked by instructors.

"The tendency today in the classroom is to expect the teacher to do all the work. But the correspondence student quickly learns to stand on his own feet," she said.

At the end of a classroom instructional period, neither the teacher nor the individual pupil can be certain of how well the lesson has been mastered.

AID TO DISCIPLINE

Victoria Tug Rides Out Second Blow

The Victoria deep-sea towboat Sudbury II, with two 10,000-ton merchant ships in tow, has weathered its second typhoon within a week off the coast of Japan.

Tuesday she was hove to close to the middle of typhoon "Dinah" which was churning up winds of 140 knots in the "eye."

Today Capt. Harley Blagborne, master of the tug, messaged the owners, Island Tug and Barge Ltd.: "Have ridden out two typhoons. Weather is moderating."

Typhoon Dinah followed close on the heels of typhoon Charlotte, and Sudbury II was still hove to, waiting out Charlotte, when Dinah arrived about 250 miles from the coast of Japan, where the tug is bound with two Liberty ships headed for the shipbreakers.

The towboat was driven about 150 miles south of her projected course while hove to. She is now making about six knots, and is two days from sheltered waters, three days from Japan if the weather holds.

Chief May Ask Horse Riding Regulation

A proposal that unsaddled riding horses be prohibited from public highways will be considered by Saanich Police Chief W. A. Pearson.

He commented today on the riding mishap Saturday in which 14-year-old Carole Cookson, 2901 Colquitz, received serious concussion and is in "satisfactory" condition at St. Joseph's Hospital. She had been described as critical to fair and was semi-conscious. The hospital said today the girl spent a restless night.

The girl was thrown or fell from her bareback horse on Wilkinson near West Saanich Road as she rode with a companion on another horse.

Chief Pearson said he would consider making the proposal for inclusion in the Motor Vehicles Act, based on the reasoning that a rider in difficulty has a much better chance of staying on his horse if he has a saddle to grasp.

Police believe a car traveling at a fast pace passed the young rider at about the time of the accident and could have caused the horse to shie.

The chief said he would ponder another recommendation of a similar nature, the banning of side-saddle motorcycle passengers.

"You see these girls riding that way all the time. Any sudden movement of the motorcycle and they're gone," he said.

'Standing in Middle Of My Lane'—Driver

A 73-year-old Victoria pensioner, a veteran outdoorsman of the Northwest Territories, was killed by a two-seater sports car as he stood on Patricia Bay Highway near Keating Cross Roads about 7.30 p.m. Tuesday.

Don Carlos Blackburn, a native of Springfield Tex., who became a naturalized Canadian in 1927, was believed to have died instantly from head and other injuries.

Central Saanich police said driver of the southbound, hard-topped sports model was Gordon Charles Hammill, 8337 Patricia Bay Highway.

The fatality took place about two miles south of the spot where a 75-year-old motorist received fatal injuries in a two-car crash Oct 8 and brought to 10 the total number of traffic deaths in Greater Victoria this year.

Arrangements for an inquest were still being made through deputy coroner Dr. J. H. Moore and Central Saanich police at noon today.

Police had difficulty in tracing next of kin and were to try contacting a son, Ford Blackburn, last known to have lived in Calgary.

Part-Time Laborer on Berry Farm

The deceased had been employed as a part-time laborer on the berry farm of R. H. Meldram, 2833 Telegraph Road, for about four months and had lived "on and off" for at least 10 years at the Salvation Army men's hostel, 629 Johnson.

About an hour before the accident, Meldram had driven his hired man from the farm to a bus stop at the highway and Telegraph Road, as usual after work.

Meldram said the man often began walking along the highway in hopes of getting a ride to town from a passing motorist instead of waiting for the bus.

On this occasion, Meldram thought, Blackburn may have been caught between bus stops and the bus did not stop for him. Chief Fred Brownlee of Central Saanich police said: "I don't know what he could have been doing for an hour after he was dropped off until the accident. But according to what we have found out, the man was declining and may just have wandered off."

The chief said Blackburn apparently was standing still in the centre of the south lane, facing the centre line of the highway, just before the impact.

Hammill said: "There was a car coming the other way. When he passed I regained my vision and the man was standing right smack in the middle of my lane, not 20 feet away."

'Hit My Brakes, Tried to Swerve'

"I hit my brakes and tried to swerve off the road, but the man moved at the same time." The chief said the man stepped back just as the car turned to its right. Hammill stopped immediately and Blackburn was found on the gravel shoulder about 50 feet north of where the car stopped.

Volunteer ambulance took him to Jubilee Hospital where he was declared dead on arrival at 8.15. The body was taken to Hayward's pending announcement of arrangements.

Shortly after the impact as the sports car stood on the highway, a passing truck failed to slow down on signal from a waving motorist and sideswiped the car's front left fender just behind the part dent in the original accident.

The accident happened on a level stretch of highway half way between Keating Cross Road and East Saanich Road intersections with the highway. Blackburn did seasonal work for Meldram and for a long time was employed by a Gordon Head grower, Ed Gillingham.

Meldram said Blackburn wanted to keep occupied in spite of declining years and was a loyal worker.

Tuesday he did some cultivating and weeding, sat down and talked for a while before

SAFE RESISTS SUNDAY PUNCH BY BURGLARS

"Ice cream" burglars who struck overnight Monday at Island Farms Dairies Co-operative Association, 2229 Blanshard, banged away on a safe unsuccessfully, then helped themselves to ice cream before leaving the building.

At the rear, after ransacking the offices and leaving hammer marks on the safe dial, the thieves used chocolate ice cream to scrawl an impolite, poorly-spelled opinion of the proprietors.

Horse Name Case to Supreme Court

OTTAWA (CP)—Two Toronto race horse owners today asked the Supreme Court of Canada to uphold a court order permitting their six thoroughbreds to race in Ontario.

William F. Morrissey and Christina Blanche Armstrong were ordered by the Ontario Racing Commission to change the names of their horses in 1957 or face a commission order prohibiting the entry of the horses in Ontario. The horses were named Hot Ice, Stole the Ring, Irenes Orphan, Rabbit Mouth, Red Nose Clown and Into the Grape.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United Nations approved tonight a resolution calling for respect for the fundamental right of the Tibetan people to choose their own way of life.

Flynn Leaves Fortune to Widow

NEW YORK (AP)—The late screen star Errol Flynn left the bulk of his estate to his widow, actress Patrice Wymore, his will disclosed today. The will, drawn in 1954, was filed for probate. It did not show the value of the estate. Flynn died Oct. 14 in Vancouver, B.C., of a heart attack.

5,000 Pull Out
Of Wage Dispute

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government's 5,000 professional employees today withdrew their support of a wage-increase campaign being conducted by the joint action committee of the Public Service Organization of Canada.

The Professional Institute of the Public Service of Canada said some affiliates of the two other member organizations on the committee have been tending toward lines of action with which the professional institute cannot associate itself.

The institute covers personnel normally identified with the professional classes—incl. doctors, lawyers, scientists, economists and accountants.

Affiliates of the 83,000-member Civil Service Federation and the 30,000-member Civil Service Association of Canada have proposed strike action and rallies and urged civil servants to refrain from buying Canada Savings Bonds to protest the government's refusal to grant a general wage increase.

The institute said its action does not imply lack of confidence in the government of the other two bodies for equitable salaries.

The government had repudiated the established procedure of salary determination on the basis of a recommendation by the civil service commission.

Meanwhile, Labor Minister Starr today promised the Civil Service Association of Canada to take steps aimed at meeting complaints about pay and working conditions for 27,000 federal "prevailing rate" employees.

The minister met national officers of the association to hear a brief on behalf of the prevailing rate workers, who are employed at going rates in the places where they work and are not permanent civil service members.

The 30,000-member association called for "extensive improvement" in pay and working conditions.

U.S. ASYLUM FOR MILD BULL

(See Page 21)

SOLIHULL, England (UPI)—An American today offered to come to the rescue of Brook Mandore, the bull whose face is his misfortune.

Farmer William Titcomb, owner of the bull, said he had received a wire from Norman Bennett, president of the U.S. Mercantile Mart of Washington, D.C., offering to buy Brook Mandore and have him shipped to sanctuary in the U.S.

The bull has been condemned to death by the British Ministry of Agriculture because of his lovely, gentle cow-like face which officials fear might be passed on to male offspring and spoil the breed.

B.C. Hospital
Progress Endangered

VANCOUVER (CP)—The provincial government's hold-the-line policy on hospital costs may be restricting progress and improvement in hospital care, the B.C. Hospitals Association was told Tuesday.

Dr. E. N. Boettcher of Victoria, chairman of the association's administrator division, said hospital costs are bound to increase by about 10 per cent a year despite the best efforts of administrators and hospital boards.

He was speaking to the association's 42nd convention following a plea by Health Minister Martin to "hold back the tide of swollen costs which threatens to engulf the whole program" of hospital insurance.

Steel
Order
Stalled

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A U.S. District Court judge today issued a Taft-Hartley injunction to halt the 99-day steel strike for 80 days. However, a stay of the injunction was granted by the U.S. Third Court of Appeals—meaning the strike continues.

The injunction was issued by Judge Herbert P. Sore of the U.S. District Court in Pittsburgh. The United Steelworkers' Union immediately appealed.

Within an hour Judge Austin Staley of the U.S. Third Circuit Court stayed execution of the injunction until the three-judge circuit court can hear a United Steelworkers' appeal.

Staley said that the legal papers for the appeal must be filed by Thursday or the stay will be voided. However, if the appeal is filed the stay will be in effect until the court rules further.

Staley declared the circuit court would sit Thursday in Philadelphia to accept the union's appeal. The union counsel, Arthur Goldberg, earlier had indicated the USW was prepared to act immediately.

Staley said he felt sure that the circuit court judges would arrange to hold a hearing on the appeal quickly.

The government sought the injunction on orders from President Eisenhower. The president said the strike was endangering the economic health and safety of the U.S.

All Quints
Die Despite Desperate Bid

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Baby D, last survivor of the five girls born to the wife of an air force lieutenant Tuesday, died at 6:40 a.m. (4:40 a.m. EST) today.

The grieving father said he and his wife "are confident all is for the best and God has a better place for them."

The parents, Lieut. and Mrs. Charles G. Hannan, "were asleep when baby D succumbed. Both had been in near-shock during the night after the deaths of the other four quints within 9½ hours of their birth."

"Oh, my God. They were just like baby dolls," half sobbed a technician in a blue uniform when the word spread rapidly through the hospital.

A Lackland Air Force Base spokesman said neither of the parents was physically able to be interviewed or have their pictures taken immediately.

FOURTH TO ARRIVE

Baby D was the fourth-born. She weighed one pound, 13 ounces.

Mrs. Hannan, 27, turned to her crewcut husband, 29, shortly after the babies were born and said, "You wanted a girl. Now you have five." The Hannans are the parents of two small boys.

Making a desperate effort to save the last survivor was Capt. William D. Munroe. He worked almost constantly with the one child throughout the night.

Baby B, so designated to indicate order of birth, died at 6:40 p.m. Tuesday. Baby A died at 7:10 p.m. Baby E died at 10:25 p.m. and Baby C at 11 p.m.

The world's only living quints are the Diligentis of Buenos Aires, Argentina, who celebrated their 16th birthday last July 15. The Dionne quints of Canada survived for 20 years, until Emilie died at 20 in 1954.

Jimmy Fraser

HE'S HERE FOR BALMY WINTER

Hoo-Pay for 'A-Hoo-La'

HUMPHRY DAVY

If you have any doubts about a mild winter, dismiss them from your mind, keep your warm undergarments in mothballs, and leer like a Cheshire cat at your fuel dealer.

It's going to be fine; no cold spell. There will be plenty of rain, but March will be a dry month. Some snow flurries will fall but they won't amount to much.

You can rely on this if you are a follower of Jimmy Fraser, famous Songhee Indian sage, who predicts the weather by direct contact with the forces of nature.

Jimmy Chats With Birds, Animals

As Jimmy has often explained in the past, he predicts the weather by reading the signs of nature or chatting with birds, animals or fishes. There is nothing unusual and odd about this. Consider the hundreds of white people who talk to their pets—horses, dogs, cats and goldfish.

For his present weather forecast, Jimmy chatted with a sea lion, the one which was basking in the sun at Hollywood Crescent last Saturday.

"A-hoo-la," meaning slippery one, is down here on a vacation.

"A-hoo-la says warm ocean currents stay close to the island, meaning mild winter," said Jimmy. "A-hoo-la much pleased." He says, "It's going to be a good salmon season. Fish don't like warm water and so will stay here."

And that wasn't all. The sage also said a sea otter called "Small One" also paid him a visit earlier this week to discuss a serious shortage of clams on Victoria beaches.

"Small One says mild winter," said Jimmy. "Small One knows. He's a good friend of mine."

Far's Ottawa's concerned, Pat Bay's been overlooked, more'n it's been looked over.

The grey-haired 82-year-old Indian, who lives on the Craigflower Reserve, has been predicting the weather for years with a remarkable degree of success.

But he's not too popular with scientists. He embarrasses them by his unorthodox methods of predicting the weather.

Of course, Jimmy said, something could happen to upset things. The north and south wind, he explained, sometimes wage giant battles for control of the skies. The outcome is often disastrous for mortals.

It must be explained for those who don't know Jimmy that the old Indian is a sort of nature worshipper. All things are real and alive for him. And all things are part of the one Great Spirit.

Jimmy on rising every morning faces the rising sun and prays to the Great One.

Matos, who had been one of Castro's most respected field commanders, had resigned as provincial military commander in protest, apparently, against the appointment of Castro's 29-year-old brother, Raul, as the new minister of the Cuban armed forces. The appointment abolished the defence ministry and gave the young man complete control over all the armed forces.

Matos and several of his supporters were inside the headquarters.

De Gaulle Wants
Talks With Mr. K

(From Times News Services)

WASHINGTON — French President Charles de Gaulle balked today on going along with the Western Allies on the timing of a summit meeting.

While President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan are urging the summit meeting be held in December, the French government issued a cabinet announcement today declaring the "best chance" for the East-West conclave would be next spring.

The communique said France would welcome a top-level conference but felt it must be carefully prepared first by the Western heads of government.

This ran counter to the reported wishes of Eisenhower and Macmillan. They have been urging a prompt meeting with de Gaulle to prepare for talks with Russia in December or January.

IRITATION PLANNED

It was learned de Gaulle plans to invite Soviet Premier Khrushchev to Paris for talks some time before Christmas.

Soviet Ambassador Sergei Vinogradov said on Premier Michel Debre's discussed summit conference matters.

The communique said: "The French government readily welcomes in principle the project of a so-called summit conference which has been the object of talks between leaders and diplomatic exchanges of view."

EASE TENSION

"On the other hand, the French government holds that it is first necessary that the effective easing of tension which one would like to hope for should develop."

In a statement accompanying the communique, a government spokesman said:

"The French government believes that a conference of chiefs of state must be carefully prepared by the western powers, and notably, preceded by meetings held between them in an unhurried fashion."

TAKEOVER IN U.S.

Army in Space

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower has decided to place the Army's team of missile and space experts at the disposal of the civilian National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), it was reported today.

Defence department sources announced the decision after the president talked with top military and civilian advisers about the space program, which again has become the subject of open controversy.

The team is headed by Dr. Werner von Braun, German-born scientist who helped put the first U.S. earth satellite into orbit. He and other members of the army group have protested a new policy giving the air force control of this country's space projects.

NASA made a bid just over a year ago to take over the army ballistic missile agency,

Harbor Funds
Misspent
In Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—City solicitor W. G. Angus said today that the three members of the Toronto harbor commission spent public funds illegally when they took their wives on $3,500 worth of convention and post-convention expenses.

Mr. Angus, who was asked by city council for a report on the commission expenses, said money spent on club memberships, Canadian National Exhibition tickets, and a baseball dinner was a good investment in public relations.

But he said money spent on wives at conventions is "not sufficiently related to the advancement or objects" of the commission to warrant the expense.

It will be up to city council to decide what action should be taken.
